Berliners Halt Traffic to Hear Currency Ban

Dr. Weyant Dies; Was Trinity Pastor

Was Formerly in New York at Park Avenue Congregation

The Rev. Peter C. Weyant, D.D., 72, a retired Methodist minister who was pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church of Kingston from 1916 to 1921, died Saturday following a brief illness.

An active minister from 1904 to 1945 when he retired and made his home in Pine Bush, the Rev. Dr. Weyant was well-known in Kingston and the surrounding area.

Besides his local charge, he had served the New York Conference including churches in Delhi, Pine Bush and the Park Avenue Methodist Church, New York.

The former local pastor also served six years as superintendent of the Newburgh district and as pastor of the Tremont Methodist Church, New York, from 1939 to 1942.

Prior to his retirement in 1945, he served the Highland charge in 1943 and 1944.

Fraternally, the Rev. Dr. Weyant was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and of Delhi Lodge, 439, F.&A.M.

The late pastor, who was born in Poughkeepsie, is survived by his wife, Henrietta Y. Weyant of Pine Bush; a son, Halstead, of Bayside, L. I., a brother, DeLoss Weyant of Newburgh; a sister, Mrs. Harry Trott of Hackensack, N. J., five grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2 p. m. from the Trinity Methodist Church, Wurts and Hunter street, at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Montrepose Cemetery.

Girl, 14, Sacrifices Self for Mother

Nashville, Tenn., March 21 (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Betty Ruth Stroud, a bride of six months, was killed yesterday when she shielded her mother from a shotgun blast fired by her father.

The father, C. C. (Lum) Adcock, 45-year-old farmer of nearby Joelton, was charged with murder and held without bond.

Jim Richardson of the district attorney general's office gave this account of the shooting:

Mrs. Stroud was staying overnight with her parents when her father came home drunk. After an argument at the house, Adcock went to a corn crib, picked up his shotgun, and returned.

Mrs. Adcock tried to induce her husband to go to bed, and when Adcock threatened her, the young bride intervened. Just as Adcock pulled the trigger, Betty Ruth stepped in front of her mother and received the full charge in her chest.

Richardson said Adcock told him he fired in self-defense when his family sought to attack him.

'Kingston on Parade' Opens Tuesday at 7 P.M.; Cars Are to Be Seen

"Kingston on Parade" industrial exposition and automobile show will open Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at the New York State Armory, North Manor avenue, under sponsorship of the Kingston Lions Club. The exposition will be held nightly through Saturday from 7 to 11 p. m.

In addition to the 38 exhibitors, 12 automobile dealers will exhibit their 1949 line of cars.

Over the week-end the armory was decorated, booths erected and today the exhibitors were placing their exhibits in position for the opening Tuesday evening.

Each evening there will be free entertainment, featuring Broadway acts. Valuable awards will be made every night.

Tuesday evening there will be a grand opening parade which will form at Delaware avenue at 6:30 o'clock and proceed up Broadway to Albany avenue and out to the armory where the exposition show will then be opened to the public.

"Kingston on Parade" industrial and mercantile exposition last year was also sponsored by the Lions Club but to the 1949 exposition has been added the automobile show, the first showing under one roof of new cars since the war.

Car Dealers to Exhibit

Automobile dealers who will display at the exposition are:

Old Capital Motors; George B. Cook, Inc.; Stuyvesant Motors; Kingston Hudson, Inc.; Martin & Moran, Inc.; P. J. Beichert of Port Ewen; Harcourt Motors; Pontiac Broadway Garage, Inc.; H. Halwick; Wiltwyck Motors;

Hayes Is Named Captain of Ferry

George Hayes of Port Ewen, who has had many years of experience on the Hudson river, has been named captain of the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry, it was announced today.

The Port Ewen man replaces the late Christopher G. Tierney of this city and is expected to take his post Tuesday or Wednesday.

The bridge authority indicated that the new ferry captain has had nearly two decades of experience on the Hudson river. He had served for some time with the Moran Towing Co., in New York harbor.

The ferry resumed its regular schedule at 9 a. m. today.

Western Mark Rule Splits Economy; Soviet Action Seen

Eastern Mark Will Hold Good for Food, Rent, Taxes for Period; East Drops

Berlin, March 21 (AP) — The western powers have outlawed the Russian east mark in their sectors of Berlin, splitting the city's economy completely.

The new Allied order yesterday, declaring that the Russian currency no longer would be acceptable as legal tender had been expected for some time.

It means that western Berlin now has one currency—the west mark; and eastern Berlin has another—the Soviet east mark. The west mark has been worth about four times as much as the east mark.

The Russians earlier made it a crime to possess west marks in their area. The United States, Britain and France did not go that far. They just said the eastern currency no longer need be accepted in their part of the city.

Although the order is effective immediately, the east mark will still be good in western sectors for rationed foods this month and will be accepted in April for rent and taxes.

There were reports the Russians would retaliate promptly against the latest western move in the currency battle.

The east mark tumbled to the rate of six to 10 per for one west mark today, as western Berliners rushed to dump their remaining holdings of east marks. That was the black market figure. But even in legal exchange offices the east mark dropped to 5.2 for one.

The chief Russian reaction so far was a charge in the Russian-controlled press this morning that the action by the western powers was a fraud against the population. Big headlines in the Communist press predicted mass bankruptcies in western Berlin.

The only concrete Russian reaction was an effort by the Soviet-controlled German police to prevent western Berliners from entering the Russian sector's ration-free stores on buying sprees with surplus east marks.

The currency question has been one of the main issues in the Soviet blockade of Berlin. Several international discussions, both inside and outside of the United Nations, have failed to solve it. A U.N. committee reported recently it had failed to reach a solution.

The United States, Britain and France put in a new currency in their zones of Germany, but not in Berlin, on June 18, 1948. Four days later Russia issued new money for her zone of Germany —and all of Berlin. The day after this Soviet step the western powers introduced their new west mark into their sectors of Berlin.

Witnesses Are To Be Quizzed At Hearing

The hearing before Associate Grade Separation Engineer A. H. Williamson of the Public Service Commission on an application of the New York Central Railroad to discontinue certain train service on the West Shore Railroad and on the Catskill Mountain Division will be resumed Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the court house.

The railroad seeks to discontinue trains No. 2 and 3 from Weehawken to Albany. Trains 21 from Weehawken to Kingston, daily except Sundays, and train 17 which ran Sundays from Weehawken to Kingston have been discontinued as of December 5. A Mountain Division train between Oneonta and Kingston was also discontinued on December 5.

Trains No. 2 and 3, which it is sought to operate only between Kingston and Weehawken have been continued pending outcome of the public hearing before the commission.

A vast amount of testimony has been submitted by persons interested in maintaining the train service or in securing better service on the West Shore as well as by the railroad which offered testimony to show that the train service which it is sought to eliminate was little used and created a financial drain on the railroad.

Cross examination of railroad witnesses, which was reserved until a study of the evidence could be made, will be taken up at this adjourned hearing.

Business Men to Meet

There will be a meeting of the Downtown Businessmen's Association, Tuesday, at 8 p. m., in the Recreation Center, downtown. All businessmen are requested to attend, since there is important business to be discussed.

Regents Are On Bad End Of Big Fight

Double Setback Comes in Their Campaign to Block Transfer of Colleges

Young Gives View

Former Regent Declares Board's Job Is One of Integration

Albany, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—The Board of Regents' fight to hold control of 31 state-aided colleges appeared doomed today.

The regents suffered a double setback in their campaign to block transfer of the colleges to the state university trustees when Owen D. Young and former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman announced support of the trustees.

Young, a former regent and chairman of the commission that recommended establishment of the State University System, said:

"The primary task of the Board of Regents is not to operate any, but to supervise and integrate the work of all educational institutions within the state."

The retired industrialist said he would decline to endorse the regents-sponsored Condon-Barrett bill. The measure would deny the university trustees administrative control of existing state-supported colleges, which they are scheduled to take from the regents April 1 under the 1948 State University law.

The measure, introduced by two Republicans, also would reduce the status of the trustees—appointed by Governor Dewey and supported by him in the present controversy—to that of a planning body.

The bill is slated to be called for a vote tomorrow in the Assembly where Dewey's legislative leaders claim enough votes to defeat it.

The state university issue and three others of major significance remain to be resolved by the Legislature during its drive for final adjournment by March 30 at the latest.

The others:

1—Establishment of a state system of sickness disability insurance.

2—Distribution of an extra $40,000,000 in state aid for education.

3—Creation of a commission empowered to set up a statewide building code.

Young's position in the regents-trustees controversy was expressed in a letter to Harvey D. Hinman, of Binghamton, state senator from 1905 to 1912. Hinman's son, George L. Hinman, is a member of the board of regents and helped draft the Condon-Barrett bill.

Young's letter was made public, with his consent, yesterday by the committee to save the State University.

At Yonkers, Regents Chancellor William J. Wallin declined comment on Young's letter.

President Assails 'Trouble Makers'

Pact Might Hit Storm

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Republicans—and a handful of Democrats may hold the balance of power when the Senate decides whether the United States should enter the proposed North Atlantic Security Alliance. At the moment, the edge is heavily in favor.

But at least 25 G.O.P. members, along with 12 Democrats, are so undecided about its far-reaching effects that they won't commit themselves publicly for or against the proposed agreement, an Associated Press canvass showed.

Of 93 Senators approached by reporters, 55 said they are inclined now to support the principle of the pact which would bind western European nations together with this country in common defense.

Many of this group, including 39 Democrats and 16 Republicans, reserved final judgment on how they will vote until the Senate actually begins work on the treaty—possibly in May or June.

One Republican, Senator Malone of Nevada, came out publicly against the proposed treaty—scheduled to be signed here April 4.

Since two-thirds of those voting must approve to make this country's entry into the pact effective, the opposition of about 30 senators possibly could kill the agreement.

Among those who aren't yet saying or who haven't made up their minds sufficiently even to indicate public approval of the agreement are most of the Senate's Republican leaders.

This group includes Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the G.O.P. Policy Committee, Senator Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Conference of All G.O.P. Senators, Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the party floor leader, and Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, top G.O.P. member of the Appropriations Committee.

Vandenberg Is Exception

An exception is Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, No. 1 Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee.

Vandenberg, who expects to help lead the Senate fight for ratification, said in a week-end statement that the pact is "a powerful insurance policy against World War III."

Taft already has said he would like to support a North Atlantic agreement along the lines of the inter-American defense pact. But he opposed plans to help rearm Europe and said that these seem "inseparable" from the treaty as it is drawn.

Bridges, who may vote for the agreement in the end, said that it means "automatic war" if a European nation is attacked despite denials of this interpretation by Secretary of State Acheson.

However, Bridges' colleague, Senator Tobey (R.-N. H.), said he doesn't see any way more effective than the defense agreement to meet "the threat of trouble which hangs over the world today."

Senator Hendrickson (R.-N. J.) said it isn't his policy to make "snap judgments" on any issue so he wouldn't take a stand yet.

"However," he said, "the cursory study I have made convinces me that the pact represents the very best workmanship. It is a well-conceived plan for the development of a lasting peace."

Some of the pact's supporters expressed themselves vigorously for it.

Said Senator Hunt (D.-Wyo.): "Russia already has perfected a powerful military alliance with her satellites. It's only self preservation for us to join friendly nations. We'll hang separately unless we do something like this."

Senator Downey (D.-Calif.) called the pact "perhaps the most clear, lucid international document ever written." Senator Kerr (D.-Okla.) said ratification of the agreement will mark "great progress toward peace."

Dies of Asphyxiation

New York, March 21 (AP)—An aviation student died of asphyxiation early today when a can of beans he was heating on a kitchen stove exploded and broke the gas burner. The victim was Irving Billett, 21-year-old navy veteran and a student at New York University. The family apartment was filled with gas. His mother, Mrs. Esther Billett, found him on the living room floor when she returned home at 2:30 a. m. Police said water in a saucepan apparently boiled away, and the overheated can of beans exploded.

Chief Executive Also Strikes at Real Estate Lobby

Washington, March 21 (AP) — President Truman today denounced "trouble makers" who talk of a rift between him and Congress. He said he and Congress are "working together" for the good of the country.

In an address to the United States Conference of Mayors, the President also made a blistering new attack on the "real estate lobby." He said it is opposing his housing and rent control program, and is "the real enemy of the American home."

This "lobby" won't succeed, he declared, and predicted passage of his housing program, complete with public housing and slum clearance.

"It seems that whenever I make a recommendation to Congress, many newspapers and columnists set up a howl about the President trying to dictate to the Congress," Mr. Truman told the six hundred mayors of major cities.

"And then if the Congress makes any decision that varies at all from my recommendations, these same troublemakers start a gleeful chorus about how the Congress has thrown the whole Democratic program overboard.

Differs With Actions

"Of course, I differ with the actions of the Congress on some points, and where these differences are important I shall continue to urge the course I think is right.

"But basically the Congress and the President are working together and will continue to work together for the good of the country.

"We are going to agree on a lot more things than we disagree on. And when the final score for this Congress is added up, some of the selfish pressure groups are going to be pretty badly disappointed."

Just before leaving the White House to address the mayor's meeting at the Statler Hotel, Mr. Truman had his usual Monday

M. F. Cully Escapes Serious Injury; Auto Demolished

Matthew F. Cully of 116 Downs street escaped serious injury when his automobile skidded off the pavement and overturned about 3:25 p. m. Friday on the Taconic State Parkway near the southern boundary of Putnam county.

Cully said today that, except for several bruises, he is in good condition. He was taken by state police after the accident to a hospital in Peekskill, where X-rays disclosed no bones were broken, he said.

The automobile skidded when Cully attempted to make a sharp right turn on the southbound parkway and crossed to the right side

Cook Gets Building

The building on the East Chester street by-pass between the Frederick and Van Kleeck garages, owned by J. J. Hoyt, Jr., of Catskill, has been purchased by George B. Cook, Inc., Auto Sales of 301 Broadway, it was learned today.

Slightly less than 7,000 square feet of land and the building of 60 by 115 feet, was purchased by the local auto dealer and will be used temporarily for warehouse and general storage purposes.

Details of the transaction were completed last week. The structure was originally built by Frederick.

Thruway Project May Start From Saugerties to City

State Department Puts Work on Schedule; Will Also Ask Bids on Crossing

Preliminary work on that section of the Catskill Thruway extending from Saugerties to Kingston is scheduled for letting this year by the state public works department, it was learned today.

Plans for this section of the Thruway have not been submitted yet, it was learned from a state official today, but the project is included among those scheduled to start this year.

An engineer of the department indicated that nothing was imminent as to the possible start of some phase of the work by summer, and the only definite information was that it is on the program.

As definitely on the program is the Broadway crossing elimination project, but state officials are unable to indicate at this time, when the state will advertise for bids on this.

The only definite word is that announced here in February to the effect that the state expects to have the project under contract by this summer.

Meanwhile, construction is definitely scheduled to get under way this spring on two sections of the Catskill Thruway, north of Saugerties, and extending well into Greene county.

Debate Is Opened

Rome, March 21 (AP)—The Italian Senate opens debate today on Italian adherence to the North Atlantic Defense Treaty. The lower house—the Chamber of Deputies—approved government support of the pact after a three-day Communist filibuster last week. Senate approval also is expected. A number of communists in the Senate were lined up, however, to speak against the treaty.

Flu Sweeps Britain

London, March 21 (AP)—Influenza is sweeping Britain, two months after it hit the continent. The Ministry of Health reported today deaths from the malady in London and the bigger towns in Britain and Wales last week totaled 321, 300 per cent more than during any week last year. Factories in industrial Warwickshire may have to close because so many workers are down with influenza.

First Year Estimates Are Billion

President Desires Free Hand in Placing U. S. Help to Augment New Defense Pact

Approval Expected

Vinson Says Armament Proposal Will Pass Without Trouble

Washington, March 21 (AP) — President Truman is expected to ask Congress for a free hand in allocating arms to western Europe under the proposed billion dollar military aid program.

The program is scheduled to go to the capitol about the same time as the North Atlantic Security Treaty, or immediately thereafter. Mr. Truman will send up the treaty for Senate approval immediately after it is signed here by an expected 12 nations, two weeks from today.

According to present State Department planning—the department is rounding up all military aid programs for Mr. Truman—the President should try to get from Congress as much of a blank check authority as he can under whatever expenditure limit Congress fixes.

Present estimates are that more than $1,000,000,000 will be required in the first 12 months to help Europe re-arm.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee predicted the arms requests "will be approved in both houses without a particle of trouble."

The Senate alone, but by a two-thirds vote, must approve the new North Atlantic Treaty if America is to take part. An Associated Press canvass of senators showed: 55 inclined to favor ratification, one opposed and 37 unwilling to go on record at this time. Two of the 95 senators were not reached; there is one vacancy.

The arms aid program is designed by the administration to carry out the "mutual aid" provision of the treaty. It would thereby help the countries of western Europe fulfill their roles in the "common strategic plan" which is to be worked out by the Allied powers.

The first official reference to this grand scheme of defense for the western world under the projected treaty came Saturday night. It appeared in a State Department pamphlet explaining the details of the treaty.

The two world wars, the department said, "proved that a major conflict in Europe would inevitably involve the United States." The Atlantic Treaty, it added, is "designed to give assurance" that if a third world war breaks out, the west will have a "coordinated defense in which the actual military strength and the military potential of all the members will be integrated into a common strategic plan."

The formation of that plan is one of the two major purposes justifying the existence of the alliance; the other is the commitment to be undertaken by the United States and the other nations that in case one of them is attacked, all of them will at once take action against the aggressor.

The State Department emphasized in its official paper that whether this country went to war if a major attack occurred in Europe would be a question for Congress to decide. But the department left little doubt that under the treaty this nation would have a very strong obligation to go to war.

That the new security project has limitations as well as advantages even in official thinking was brought out in the course of a department sponsored broadcast yesterday. Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk declared in this program that the American people "want a world wide security system and they won't be content with a (North Atlantic) regional system."

Another limitation of the pact was brought out in the same broadcast by John Foster Dulles, a member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations. Dulles said that countries other than those in western Europe had need for security for which they could no longer rely on the United Nations in view of the Russian veto in the Security Council.

Air Squadron to Salute Local Reservists March 27

In a salute to the newly-activated 167th Composite Squadron in Kingston, a formation of aircraft from the 2232nd Air Force Reserve Training Center, Stewart Field, will fly over this city next Sunday at approximately 2:15 p. m., it was learned today in an official release from the Stewart Field air base.

Leading the formation will be Major Willis D. Locke, U.S.A.F.R., commanding officer of the 21st Photo Reconnaissance Squadron, reserve, and Captain John Hines, U.S.A.F.R., operations officer, both residents of Kingston.

Other planes in the formation will be manned by reservists from the Kingston area.

Meeting Planned

The first meeting of the new local unit will be held in the city court room of the city hall Tuesday, March 29, at 8 p. m. Air force personnel from the 2232nd Reserve Training Center will speak to the reservists of Kingston at this meeting and will explain the new reserve program including requirements and benefits.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk also is expected to attend the meeting and officially welcome the new unit.

Through the activation of the unit in Kingston, local former members of the air force will be enabled to retain their commissions or enlisted status by attendance at meetings and training periods. In the past, it has been difficult for many reservists to be active due to the fact that the nearest training center was at Stewart Field.

Under the new program, the 2232nd Air Force Reserve Training Center at Stewart Field plans to activate reserve units in cities throughout the Hudson valley thereby providing local training facilities to all reservists in this area.

Lee in Charge

Kingston was chosen as the first city to gain a new unit with Major Theodore R. Lee, U.S.A.F.R., of this city, designated as commanding officer.

Religious Leaders Report Dismay Over U.S. Warning

New York, March 21 (AP)—Three religious leaders have expressed "dismay" over the U. S. State Department's warning that the forthcoming Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace will be used to spread Communist propaganda.

A joint statement defending the conference was issued yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Halford E. Luccock, of the Yale University Divinity School; the Rt. Rev. Arthur W. Moulton, retired Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Utah; and the Rt. Rev. S. Harrington Littell, retired Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Honolulu.

Their statement said the conference, opening here Friday, will be "an important step in the re-establishment of cultural relations between the United States, the U.S.S.R. and other countries."

"As such," they said, "it should be encouraged and approved by our officials."

The National Council of the Arts, Sciences and Professions is sponsor of the three-day international meeting.

Dr. Donovan J. McCune, professor of pediatrics at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, announced yesterday that he had withdrawn as one of the sponsors of the conference.

Dr. McCune said the meeting might "be used as a vehicle for condemning the foreign policy of our government, rather than as a positive measure for promoting understanding among nations."

On Saturday, Miss Sarah Gibson Blanding, president of Vassar College, withdrew as a sponsor. She said she believed there would not be a fair balance of opinion at the meeting.

The clergymen's statement yesterday was issued by the sponsor-

Protestants Begin Work on Problem

Evanston, Ill., March 21 (AP)—North American Protestants tonight begin an attack on the problem of "why churches have failed in an industrial society and what they can do about it."

The occasion is a meeting of the American section of the World Council of Churches. It is the first such session since last summer's meeting—which produced a controversial denunciation of "laissez faire capitalism" and Communism—of the full council in Amsterdam.

A spokesman said the attack on the problem "of why churches have failed in an industrial society and what they can do about it "must be placed against the "basic question of the disorder of society."

"This disorder," he continued "was responsible for the Communism-capitalism report at Amsterdam. The disorder is still with us, and probably can be expressed as "how can modern man find a meaning for his existence?'

"He has lost that meaning. The revival of the gods of fate and chance, of gambling and astrology and superstition are the clearest evidence of this."

"He lost that meaning somewhere in the mass production line of modern technology and modern churches have not given it back to him."

Actual business sessions begin tomorrow morning, although Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of New York, will deliver the keynote address tonight.

The question of industrial evangelism — of putting the churches into active contact with labor—will dominate tomorrow morning's session. The Rev. Robert S. Bilheimer, of New York, general program secretary of the World Council in North America; and Dr. O. Frederick Nolde, of Philadelphia, dean of the graduate School of the Lutheran Seminary will lead discussions of national and international aspects of the problem. The Rev. William Keys, New York, council youth secretary, will discuss the problem as it affects the younger generation.

Representatives of all North American Churches, except Roman Catholic, Southern Baptist, and Unitarian, will attend.

Flynn to Replace Miller as Clerk

Robert J. Flynn, 93 St. James street, has been appointed to replace Benson V. Miller, 139 Emerson street, as principal clerk in the city assessor's office, it was announced today.

Miller, who was appointed at the end of last month, to replace C. LeRoy Brower, subsequently was named city marshal to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of John Melville.

Melville resigned because of ill health and Brower accepted a position with the State Department of Taxation and Finance.

Flynn, who had been employed for several years as principal clerk in the local welfare department, served with the 12th Armored Division in the European theatre during World War 2, and was in the service from 1942 to 1946. He left a position as sales correspondent with the Eastern Tractor Mfg. Corp., to accept the city post. The appointment is currently on a temporary basis.

All Escape Injuries

Three automobiles, one driven by a Kingston man, were slightly damaged when they slid into each other 6:45 p. m. Friday on the slippery pavement of Route 55 near Poughkeepsie, the Dutchess county sheriff's office reported. No injuries were reported. The drivers of the vehicles involved were Kenneth Charlton, 151 Wrentham street, this city; Harvey B. Milk, Bayshore, and Michael Blosky, New York city, the sheriff's office said.

Will Bury Admiral

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Rear Admiral John Anderson Schofield, 73, who died Saturday, will be buried tomorrow in Arlington National Cemetery. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. in Fort Myer (Va.) chapel. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Belle Schofield, who resides here, and a son, William C. Schofield of Bronxville, N. Y.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk is honorary chairman of the exposition committee. Chairman of the committee from the Kingston Lions Club is Clifford V. Bunting, assisted by Vice-Chairman C. Robert Cousins, Alvin Feuerstein as treasurer and Lawrence J. MacAvery as general coordinator.

One of the features of the parade Tuesday evening will be the division to which members of the Lowland Riding Club of Kingston will be assigned. Members of the club will ride under the leadership of James McCabe.

It was announced today that, in the event of rain or snow Tuesday evening, the parade in conjunction with the opening of the exposition would be postponed until the next evening. The exposition will open Tuesday regardless of the weather.

Final Terms Are Reached On Railroad Wage Boost

Chicago, March 21 (AP)—Final terms on a $640,000,000 a year wage boost have been reached in the 11-month dispute between the nation's railroads and 15 non-operating unions.

The settlement, worked out on a formula recommended by a presidential fact-finding board, was described by a union spokesman as the "most momentous" wage and hour movement in the history of American industry.

It will extend the basic 40-hour work week to the railroads for the first time and affects 1,000,000 employes.

The 40-hour week at the same pay the workers received for 48 hours becomes effective next September 1, but an additional wage boost of seven cents an hour is retroactive to last October 1. Except from the general terms of the "third round" wage boost are the yardmasters who will continue on a six-day week with an increase of 10 cents an hour.

Overtime in excess of eight hours in a day or 40 hours in a week will be paid generally at the rate of time and one half. Although Saturdays and Sundays will be considered ordinary work days, the carriers must arrange for a maximum number of employes to have those days off. However, they have the privilege of staggering the work week where necessary to avoid overtime rates for those days.

On a straight time rate, the average hourly wage is raised from $1.18 to $1.46. The unions' original demands were for a 40-hour week, Mondays through Fridays at no pay reduction, time and a half for Saturdays, double time for Sundays, and an increase of 25 cents an hour. The roads refused the shorter work week and overtime rates and offered a 10-cent pay hike.

The case was submitted to the fact-finding board in September, 1948, after the unions had voted to strike. The board's recommendation of the five-day week was the toughest issue to settle.

ing council. Bishop Moulton and Bishop Littell are scheduled to address the conference, but Dr. Luccock will not speak.

The U. S. State Department said last week that the conference closely related to the World Congress of Intellectuals held last year at Wroclaw, Poland. That conference, which was predominantly pro-Communist, charged American-British "imperialism."

Officials of the New York conference deny any connection between it and the conference in Poland.

The three clergymen said yesterday that "we are dismayed at the State Department's action in pre-judging the . . . conference . . . which has been called in the best American tradition of free exchange of ideas on the most vital question which faces all peoples and nations."

The statement also declared that Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard, chairman of the conference, and the council "should be applauded for their achievement in opening cultural channels which our diplomats have apparently been unable to negotiate."

The council said others joining in the commendation included Joseph Hudnut, dean of the Graduate School of Design of Harvard University, and Francis Fisher Kane, Philadelphia attorney.

The conference will include 22 delegates from countries behind the "Iron Curtain."

Dmitri Shostakovitch, the composer, and six other Russians left Moscow yesterday for the conference here, the Soviet official news agency Tass reported. There was no immediate indication when they would arrive in New York.

The U. S. State Department has given the Russians permission to enter this country in the interests of freedom of speech.

The meeting is backed by more than 500 American writers, scientists, artists, educators and actors.

Western Mark Rule

They permitted the east mark to circulate, but the Russians barred the west mark from the Soviet sector.

The western allies said putting western Berlin on a west-mark only basis was "long overdue" because "grave economic and social injustices" have resulted from the dual currency arrangement.

Their announcement said it was hoped at the time the west mark was introduced in Berlin that it would be a temporary arrangement prior to agreement on a single currency under four power control. But since, it added, there has been no such agreement, the city administration has split and the blockade has continued.

Chaotic conditions have resulted, the western powers said, affecting real wages, supply of currency in circulation and business dealings.

The western city government is expected to profit by the change. Up to now it had to accept east marks in tax payments and pay part of its salaries and other expenses in west marks.

The currency changeover may leave some western Berliners holding a lot of east marks since each person can trade in only 15 east marks for western currency. But they can, if they wish, use their east marks on shopping trips in the Soviet sector and in Soviet-occupied areas surrounding Berlin. Such purchases would have to be smuggled past the Russian blockade.

Meanwhile, the Russians announced they had begun a "big new repatriation" of German prisoners of war. The United States and Britain charged last week that the Soviets had failed to keep promises to return all German prisoners by the end of 1948.

Neal Hotaling, of Bloomington, reported to The Freeman today that he had seen a flock of 10 fat robins. "Wherever they spent the winter," Hotaling said, "they had a good time of it."

Wallowing in Suds

By FRANK TRIPP

I fear I am becoming a soap opera addict. What with Mary Noble and Stella Dallas, my days are confused any my brain in a whirl. How two women can get into so much trouble is beyond human understanding.

The route by which I went lather and fell for these two dames is both dumb and simple—if there's any difference. I happen to ride a lot in a car at times when Stell and Mary hold forth. The only things you can do at such a time is drive, smoke and listen. Till comes dashboard television—then, "friends omit flowers."

Being a newspaperman, of course I just listen objectively, I couldn't tell you what Stell and Mary ballyhoo to save my neck. But I do know that they're always in a mess — and there's no excuse for it. I think the folks who write the stuff make it all up.

You take Stell, for instance. Time and again all she had to do was telephone anybody who was listening to her, I could have rescued her from that boat house in ten minutes. I know a guy who lives right near there.

THEN there's the time she took that rich old codger out to lunch and he ate crab meat. It was her own fault. She knew he was allergic to crabs and could only eat lobster. That's funny, too, come to think of it. Crab meat is a new idea as a lethal weapon—or is it?

How could the old bird go stiff on crab meat and still thrive on lobster? Maybe he ate the can. He didn't die, but it was good for weeks of suspense in my Pontiac. I wish I could think what Stell advertises.

Poor old Stell; she's been booted all around, but she gets one break—her Texas background. Anybody by the name of Dallas can hold her own, if she keeps away from Fort Worth.

AND THERE'S Mary Noble the jewelry designer from Iowa; the wife of a famous Broadway star who is the matinee idol of a million other women. Press agent stuff I suspect; maybe a couple other women. Mary's always in the dog house too. She's just as big a sap as Stell.

After months of anxiety, during which I missed the Freedom Train and an Elks' Outing, Mary finally got a potion of strychnine down that wench Regina who had concocted it for her. I breathed easier.

That was supposed to be the end of Regina—but wait. I can't see yet how I got so worked up about it. It should have been plain from the start that to kill off any soap opera ladies wouldn't be a bit like the National Biscuit Company—or initials to that effect. Not right now anyway.

WHEN REGINA drank the poison meant for Mary, I sez to myself, "Thank heaven I've seen one of 'em through to a photo finish."

I expected Mary to settle down making earrings in Attleboro and Larry to join up with the Chautauqua Circuit under canvas. But no; he gets another Broadway part and Mary's in a mess again. If you want to know what I think, it's that the bird who writes the darn thing stirs up all the trouble.

The pay-off comes when Regina shows up on another soap opera. You couldn't possibly fail to recognize her, and be sorry you'd sent flowers. She never died at all. The whole thing was a fake.

Like the time the boys around the office sent a bouquet to Morgan Casey, who was sick. His wife met the florist at the door and said: "Take it back; Casey ain't dead yet."

THESE SOAP OPERA things are tabloid hangovers of the old time rep show melodramas of 50 years ago. When the heroine was lashed to the track in front of a cardboard locomotive, or to an oncoming papier-mache log in a saw mill.

I was press agent for Little Tessie Delrose in one of 'em. Little Tessie is now the 250 pound wife of a railroad fireman in South Carolina. I got a mushy card from her last Christmas—which Fanny asked me to explain.

Anyway there really was a Little Tessie Delrose. Gee, I wish I could remember what Stell and Mary Noble advertise. I must notice some time.

Baruch Declares Chief World Need Is Peace Verdict

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch today declared the need is urgent for the United States to "seek a decision" in making world peace.

Baruch, an adviser of presidents, told the United States conference of mayors that efforts to cope with high prices and taxes—or with declining sales and jobs — are "doomed to failure", without a settlement of the cold war.

"Peace is what we need," Baruch said. "Peace with self-respect."

Recalling that he stressed to Congress a year ago the time was at hand for a decision, the 78-year old industrialist told 600 big-city leaders opening their annual meeting:

"There has been some progress in that direction—but not enough. We must make up our minds where we stand globally and then organize ourselves to see it through."

He advised against "panicky" measures and held out hope for settlement with Russia.

"It is dreadful to contemplate," Baruch said, "That our difficulties should lie with a former associate who did so much to crush a common enemy.

"The mutual suffering and losses have been almost forgotten in the determination of nations to have the peace cast in their own image.

"Still, I believe we can get the peace we crave if we pace and control ourselves in the interest of all, and not of selfish groups.

"I am satisfied that if we make up our minds and tell the people what should be done and why, we will be able to guard against possible war and still keep the most tolerable living conditions in the world.

"Should war be forced upon us —which God forbid—we will be ready to do our duty. We need have no fears of the present or future, if we keep ourselves strong militarily, economically and spiritually."

The questions to be solved, Baruch said, are how long the cold war must last and how much of America's resources must be thrown into it; whether foreign aid and armament must constantly be increased; if so, what must be given up at home; and, whether other nations can relieve this country of some of "the burdens of the world."

"Until these and related questions are settled, all of us—you mayors, governors, every individual—are prisoners of the federal government," Baruch told the conference.

"This condition exists because we live in a world of alarms."

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, legislation chairman of the conference, advised the delegates to continue pressure for extended rent control and housing legislation. Public housing and slum clearance, he said, can make possible the solving of "one of the most pressing and serious problems facing the major American cities today."

Text Is Published

Moscow, March 21 (AP)—The full text of the North Atlantic treaty was published in all Moscow newspapers yesterday. This highly unusual action was viewed by foreign observers here as indicating Soviet authorities consider the text supports Russia's argument that the alliance is "aggressive" in nature. Moscow radio stations broadcast the text to all provincial papers, which are certain to print it. Publication of the text means that millions of Soviet readers will be able to compare it with comment carried in the Communist press.

Gets Jail Term

Duesseldorf, Germany, March 21 (AP)—A German court at Wuppertal, sentenced Paul Friedrichs to serve eight months in jail today on a charge that he shared his wife with friends and fellow workers—for pay. The prosecutor said "Friedrichs made extra money by inviting friends and fellow workers to his home and then offering them his wife," who was described as being between 30 and 40 years old. The specific charge against Friedrichs, a mechanic, was that he violated a German law barring "match-making."

Will Exhibit Organ

Roger Baer, of The Roger Baer Music Studios, announced today that final arrangements have been completed with David Walsh, manager of the organ department of the Baldwin Piano Co., New York, to install the new Baldwin Electronic Organ in Baer's booth for the Lions Club Exposition, beginning Tuesday. Baer said that an effort was made to introduce the new Baldwin Organ at the exposition last year. Due to shortage of materials at the factory, it was impossible to secure one.

Trans-Jordan Asks Aid

London, March 21 (AP)—Trans-Jordan has asked Britain for military aid in defending its southern border with Israel, the British Foreign Office said today. A spokesman said Britain is studying the request, which was made under the military alliance treaty signed by the two countries in 1946. He said the call was for British troops "to patrol part of Trans-Jordan's southern borders in view of alleged Israeli incursions" into Trans-Jordan territory.

Train Hits Auto

Raleigh, N. C., March 21 (AP)—Passengers aboard the Seaboard Air Line Railroad's Silver Comet were awakened before dawn today when the streamliner struck an automobile 18 miles south of here. None of the 250 to 300 passengers was injured. No cars were derailed. Railroad officials said the driver of the stalled car apparently left it on the crossing while he went for assistance. The car was demolished. The train, bound for New York from Birmingham, Ala., was delayed three hours.

Israel, Lebanon Agree to Armistice

En Naqura, Lebanon, March 21 (AP)—Israel and Lebanon have agreed to an armistice.

It is the second such agreement arrived at between the new Jewish state and one of the Arab nations that vowed to destroy it when Israel declared its independence last May.

The formal Israel-Lebanon agreement is to be signed here Wednesday. Delegates of the two countries initialed the agreement last night. The terms were not revealed.

The first armistice in the Palestine war was signed at Rhodes Feb. 24 between Israel and Egypt.

Israel is engaged in further armistice talks at Rhodes with Trans-Jordan. These talks were to resume today after a week-end recess.

At Rhodes, acting Holy Land Mediator Dr. Ralph J. Bunche announced today that Rysia has accepted an invitation to begin armistice negotiations with Israel. An Israeli foreign office spokesman in Tel Aviv had made a similar announcement yesterday.

Syria until now had been one of the most adamant of the Arab nations in refusing to enter armistice talks with Israel.

Iraq was the fifth Arab nation to take up arms actively against Israel. Her troops are observing the current Palestine truce, but Iraq has not yet agreed to any armistice discussion.

The Israeli-Lebanon agreement, it was learned reliably, does not mention the question of Syrian troops on Lebanese soil. This was one of the thorniest problems in the talks that began here March 1.

Informants said Israel apparently waived her original demand that any agreement reached with Lebanon also be binding on Syrian troops in Lebanese territory.

Lt. Col. Mordehai Maklef, head of the Israeli delegation, told reporters after the initialing he could not say he was pleased with the terms.

Under the agreement, it was learned, Israel will release 38 Lebanese war prisoners Thursday and Lebanon will turn over seven Israelis.

Rosendale Girl, 8, Injured by Auto

Judith Post, 8, of Rosendale, was slightly injured Sunday noon when she was struck by an automobile and knocked to the pavement on Route 213 in the village of Rosendale, the sheriff's department reported. The girl was treated by Dr. Irving H. Rosenbaum of Stone Ridge for a contusion of her head.

Deputy Sheriff William A. Frost, who investigated, reported the girl suddenly darted from the sidewalk into the path of an automobile operated by Victor Gastaldello, 56, of Union City, N. J., and was struck by the right front fender of the vehicle. The driver of the automobile was not held.

ed by a day a statement by Lehman calling for a "thorough test" of the university law "before any attempt is made to modify it."

Lehman said:

"In view of the fact that the trustees, who are charged with the greatly needed university, feel that they will be able to carry on promptly and effectively only under the existing law, I urge that no major changes be made in the state university laws at this time. Any other course might cause great delay and confusion."

Despite claims by opponents that the Condon-Barrett bill would not receive 76 votes required for Assembly passage, a spokesman for the Regents expressed confidence the measure would clear the larger house.

In that event, the measure would run into serious trouble in the Senate. Chairman Arthur H. Wicks of the Senate Finance Committee has indicated the bill would not be reported out of committee.

Moreover, opponents point out, the measure would be vetoed by Governor Dewey should it reach his desk.

Police List Seven Persons Injured In City Accidents

Seven persons were injured in six accidents in the city during February, according to the report of Police Chief Raymond Van-Buren, filed recently with the Board of Police Commissioners.

Three of the accidents involved pedestrians and three were between motor vehicles, according to the report.

The report recorded 65 arrests for the month, and of these 23 were held on charges of public intoxication, 16 for violations of the vehicle and traffic laws, 12 for infractions of the city traffic code, and six for disorderely conduct. Two charges of third degree burglary, two of grand larceny and two of driving while intoxicated, were listed.

$2,547 in Clothing Taken From Newburgh Shop

Newburgh, March 21 — Loot amounting to $2,547.50 in clothing was taken from Weiner's Men's Shop, 98 Broadway, Newburgh, last week, it was reported by the police. In addition to the loss of men's clothing, about $20 in cash also was taken.

Morris Weiner, proprietor of the shop, told police that 34 new suits, valued at $1,870, were included in the loss. About 45 suits from an alterations rack also were lifted.

Sanity Test Set For Police Slayer

Port Jervis, March 21—A first degree murder complaint against Harold A. Brundage, 27, admitted slayer of John MacKechnie, 37, a Port Jervis patrolman, has been deferred pending the outcome of a mental examination.

Brundage, who confessed the killing to Port Jervis police officials, was committed on Friday to the Middletown State Hospital for a sanity test.

The killing took place early Friday morning in the basement of the Port Jervis city hall.

The slayer's removal to the state hospital was ordered by Peace Justice Willis R. Quackenbush following a three-hour conference with District Attorney Clare J. Hoyt, Coroner Charles R. March and other Port Jervis police officials.

MacKechnie, the father of two small children, was said to have suffered a severe blow behind the right ear. The blow, officials said, knocked the policeman unconscious, and he was later strangled, probably with his own necktie.

Damage Is Slight After Sunday Fire

A mattress, bedding and part of a room in the St. Benedict Sanitarium, operated by Mrs. Charlotta Cummings, 122 Fair street, were damaged in a slight fire at 2:15 p. m. Sunday.

The mattress was removed from the building and the Wiltwyck booster was used to quench the blaze which had damaged curtains and varnish on windows and the floor as well as the bed.

Eight patients, one of them bed ridden, were not forced to leave the building, firemen said. A cigarette was listed as the possible cause of the fire.

Another blaze at 10:37 a. m., believed to have been caused by an oil stove, damaged a canvas top, a chair and the fender of an automobile at 2 Arlington Place.

Firemen said the blaze started, after Walter Drake, who had been working under the canvas top repairing an auto, had left the place for a few minutes.

Rioting Breaks Out

London, March 21 (AP)—Rioting broke out over a wide area of London's squalid East End last night when followers of Sir Oswald Mosley clashed with Communists and other opponents. Several hundred police struggled for several hours before they could subdue rioters who used their fists and threw firecrackers, steel ball bearings and glass marbles to make police horses lose their footing.

Fight Shapes Up For Congress Seat

New York, March 21 (AP)—A fight is shaping up between Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and State Assemblyman Owen McGivern for a Congressional seat on Manhattan's west side.

McGivern, serving his sixth term in the Assembly, says he won't "be scared off" from seeking the 20th District seat left vacant recently by the death of Democrat Sol Bloom.

The late President's lawyer son announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination last week. The District is normally Democratic.

McGivern announced his candidacy Saturday night, and told a rally of his Assembly district constituents:

"No interloper — whether he lives in Nassau or Dutchess county—can come into this district and claim by Divine right the nomination for Congress from the west side. If any outsider or county squire thinks he is going to ride the hounds along Tenth avenue, he has another guess coming."

Roosevelt does not live in the 20th district, but Congressmen do not have to live in the districts they represent.

Roosevelt lists his mother's Manhattan apartment — outside the 20th District—as his city address. His opponents say he lives in Woodbury, on Long Island.

Some Democratic leaders are backing Roosevelt, and he has liberal party support and the backing of a number of labor union officials. But many leaders of Tammany Hall—which expects to have the deciding voice on the nomination — oppose him. Some raise the non-residence objection and cite that he supported Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

McGivern told the rally Saturday night that "I was born in this district and I will win this fight because I am right." He said he would not be "brushed aside" by "any interloper, however illustrious his name."

With temperature at 65 degrees below zero, aeronautic engineers George Gage, left, and Robert Doxtader check a gun turret undergoing tests in General Electric's new "cold box," where bomber weapons are inspected. Wearing "storm suits," the men make many brief inspections—usually less than five minutes each—because of the extreme cold.

United Medical Bureau Is Favored by Hoover Group

Washington, March 21 (AP)—A new cabinet-rank department of Public Welfare and Education and a controversiall merger of federal medical care under one agency were recommended today by the Hoover Commission.

The proposed establishment of an independent "United Medical Administration" was expected to raise a storm of criticism.

The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars already have condemned this plan, which would strip from the armed forces and the Veterans Administration their continent-wide network of hospital facilities.

Say Cost Too High

But the Hoover group declared the present scattering of medical services among 40 federal offices makes for high cost, duplication and in the case of the military, "inadequate" care.

It noted that the government is responsible wholly or in part for treating 24,000,000 persons.

Actually, the commission itself split sharply on the medical plan. it mustered unqualified support from only half the members of the 12-man government reform group, including the chairman, former President Herbert Hoover.

Retiring Defense Secretary Forrestall abstained from voting because of his official position. Five others filed dissents but differed among themselves as to a proper solution.

The commission suggested no name for the cabinet-rank department of Welfare and Education, but that's the title it is generally expected to get if it is created.

The new department proposed, should embrace federal Social Security activities, the Office of Education and most other services now lodged in the Federal Security Administration.

Further, it was urged, the department should take over the Bureau of Indian Affairs, now under the Interior Department.

If the Hoover plan is adopted by Congress, it would place in President Truman's cabinet his friend and political ally, Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing.

Would Lose Some Powers

However, Ewing's agency would be shorn of these activities in the switchover:

The United States Employment Service, renamed the "Bureau of Employment Security," would go to the Labor Department where Mr. Truman wants it. The 80th Congress thwarted the President's plan to attach it to labor last year.

The Public Health Service would be wrapped into the new Medical Administration, along with a section of the Food and Drug Administration. Part of the latter agency would go to the Agriculture Department.

The Bureau of Employes' Compensation and the Employes' Compensation Appeals Board—which together take care of the federal end of jobless pay—would be transferred to the Labor Department.

Since the government's Indian services are largely educational, the commission held that the proposed department should take charge of an expanded program to improve the economic status, health, education and self reliance of the government's 400,000 Indian wards.

The twin reports were the 15th and 16th in a series of 18 installments on government reorganization prepared by the bi-partisan commission created by Congress a year and a half ago.

ALLIGERVILLE

Alligerville, March 21—Mrs. Michael Gorman of Rosendale tendered a surprise birthday party in honor of her mother, Mrs. Emma McManus on March 11 at her home. Those attending were Mrs. Minnie Lewis of Alligerville, Mrs. Gussie Tenure of Binnewater and Mrs. Elizabeth Romano of Rosendale. A turkey dinner was served to the guests.

Edward DeWitt of Kingston spent Saturday afternoon with his mother, Mrs. H. B. DeWitt.

Mrs. Minnie Lewis called on Walter Brooks, Miss Fannie Ten Hagen, Mrs. Laura Canfield and Mrs. Judson Avery in Kingston recently.

Hospitals Don't Need Help

Albany, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—A state commission studying hospital finances says voluntary hospitals in New York do not need immediate financial help from the Legislature. The finding was contained in an interim report of the Joint Hospital Survey and Planning Commission. The commission last August authorized Columbia University to undertake a study of hospital finances. A final report is due in September.

Police Seize Big Cocaine Supply

New York, March 21 (AP)—Police have seized pure cocaine valued at $1,950,000 at underworld prices and arrested three alleged members of a national narcotics ring.

A woman police detective, posing as a chambermaid, was credited with gathering information that led to the arrests.

The detective, Mrs. Mabel Leonard, took the job as a domestic last January in a rooming house where the three men used a room as their headquarters. She kept her eye on the men, and often entered their quarters on the pretext of doing her chores. Cooperation by a janitor also helped break the case.

Those held on narcotics charges are Ralph Lopez, 32; his brother, John Lopez, 38, and Jose Gonzales, 28. Arraigned yesterday, they were held on charges of illegal possession.

Detectives said the three men offered to pay $15,000 for their freedom when arrested.

Police had been watching the trio since information was received last January that they might be involved in selling narcotics smuggled here from Venezuela, Peru and Chili.

Detective John F. Cottone said the prisoners were "the clearing house for merchant seamen who smuggle narcotics into this country." He said they recently returned here from Chicago and Detroit.

The first arrested was Ralph Lopez, seized early yesterday as he stepped into an automobile near his home. Police said he was carrying a suitcase containing 50 ounces of pure cocaine, and that he had $2,500 in his pockets.

The other two were arrested a short time later at their homes.

Sixty ounces of pure cocaine was found later in the furnished room used as headquarters, police said.

But Not on Horseback

Philadelphia, March 21 (AP)—Dice are sometimes referred to as "galloping dominoes," but Detective Nicholas Laurelli says a crap game lookout on horseback is carrying things too far. Laurelli and other detectives converged on a small shack in South Philadelphia yesterday in search of a reported dice game. As detectives neared the shack, a man on horseback shouted a warning and galloped off across vacant lots. The warning was to little avail, however. In the shack the detectives arrested eight men and seized about $1,000 cash.

While He Snoozed

Toronto, March 21 (AP)—Honor among cellmates? Not in Toronto. Terrance Gordon, arrested for drunkenness, took himself a quiet snooze in his cell. When he awakened, his first exclamation was: "That guy over there is wearing my suit." Police charged two of Gordon's fellow prisoners with theft. They had managed—without being observed by police—to take off Gordon's suit and put him in an ill-fitting pair of old trousers.

Liquor Group Told Not to Try Shift On Youth Sales

Cautioning the industry not to seek painless legislative solutions for serious social problems, Chairman John F. O'Connell of the State Liquor Authority yesterday told upwards of a thousand members of the Catholic Guild of the Liquor Industry, assembled at the Hotel Statler in New York city for the Guild's fifth annual communion breakfast, to constantly bear in mind "that what is bad for the public is not good for your industry."

In a pointed reference to persons backing legislation which would transfer responsibility for sales of alcoholic beverages to minors from licensees who make the sales to minors who buy the beverages, Chairman O'Connell said that this opinion, even with the best possible motivation, is ill-conceived and erroneous."

"Such enactments, whether by state or municipality, are wholly inconsistent with the trend of advanced social thinking and with modern methods of treating youthful offenders.

"They are contrary to the policy of the State of New York as set forth in the Youthful Offender Act which was devised specifically as an instrument to keep minors out of court and their names off police records."

Stressing the fact that such legislation would run counter to the express purpose of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, which was enacted to foster temperance and encourage obedience to law, O'Connell said that it would facilitate rather than prevent sales to minors.

Warning that any law which defines as criminal the act of a boy or girl who misrepresents his or her age to obtain service of alcoholic beverages would not find public favor, O'Connell said that when the public came to realize the full import of such procedure they would resent it bitterly and vent their resentment on the liquor industry.

"Industry members in toying with this handling of sales to minors are playing with fire—and fire burns. The whole idea in summary is against the trend of advanced social thinking and modern methods of handling youthful offenders.

"If we would keep this industry free, we must spare no effort to keep it legitimate."

TRUMAN MUST COMPROMISE

President Truman has come back to Washington to confront a couple of situations that are important to his future political strategy. One is that the 81st Congress so far has given him the same sort of trouble that its predecessor did, and in about the same amount. The other is that the Democratic Party is still the Democratic Party of November 1, 1948.

By the party we don't mean the people who voted for Democrats on November 2, but the office holders, committeemen and others occupied with year-round politics. The mood of delighted amazement, confidence and unity in victory that prevailed on November 3 has passed. In its place are the same divisions and differences that seemed at one time to have split the Democrats hopelessly and thus assured Governor Dewey's victory.

Perhaps it should be added that the Republican Party is no different, either—especially in Congress. The G.O.P.-Southern Democrat coalition is as strong as before. So far it has nullified the substantial Democratic majority which was counted on to enact Mr. Truman's domestic program.

Now there is a possibility that almost none of the program will survive in the form in which the President presented it. The 75-cent minimum wage bill has been approved by a House committee, but with limited amendments. Rent control, though extended, was pretty well hobbled by the House. And the Senate filibuster has sunk the civil rights bill, at least for the present.

That isn't the whole program, of course. But price and wage controls, material allocations, and the power to put government in the steel business seem definitely finished before they are started. With a considerable portion of Congress in its present stubborn mood, it would be hard to predict the fate of any of the remaining items on the President's want list.

Perhaps Mr. Truman, in the flush of November victory, indulged in some hasty words and actions. Certainly he put Southern congressmen's back up by saying that he won without the Dixiecrats and was glad of it. Some Southern opposition to his program in Congress may be repayment for that remark.

It may also be that the President counted too heavily on popular support to see his program through. Popular support is indispensable, but so is congressional support if Mr. Truman hopes to deliver on his promises.

So far it has seemed that the President is more inclined to command and scold the new Congress than he is to work in close cooperation. This is rather odd, for Mr. Truman showed a marked respect for the independence and prerogatives of Congress as a member of the Senate.

Quite naturally the President thinks that his program is right and good, and wants to see it enacted as is. The prospect of having to compromise on that program cannot be pleasing. But however galling it may be to send his congressional lieutenants to make peace with the dissidents, that might have to be his eventual course.

Mr. Truman cannot now take an all-or-nothing attitude. To get all now is clearly impossible. But there is a likelihood that he might get nothing if the opposition coalition remains as strong and adamant as it is now.

HAPPY DAYS

If our secretary of the treasury, chairmen of congressional ways and means committees, and other officials responsible for our finances were suddenly transported to the days of Andrew Jackson, they would think that they had come to a dream world. What they could find hard to believe would be that the national debt, instead of being about a quarter of a trillion dollars, was only 48 million, and that even this modest amount was being extinguished at the rate of some 12 million a year.

In fact, as Charles M. White points out in his new life of John C. Calhoun, President Jackson was disturbed as to what to do with the federal surplus when the national debt was paid off. In his message he hit on the immensely popular notion of dividing it up proportionately among the states, and passing a constitutional amendment to legalize the transaction.

One safe prophecy is that no such constitutional amendment will now be needed for many decades to come.

A youthful neighbor says the trouble with some folks is they never were young.

COMPETITION FOR AMUSEMENT

Sam Goldwyn, the largest of the independents in Hollywood, once wrote on the effects of television on movies:

". . . once again it will be true, as it was in the early days of motion-picture history, that it will take brains instead of just money to make pictures. This will be hard on a great many people who have been enjoying a free ride on the Hollywood carousel, but it will be a fine thing for motion pictures as a whole."

Motion pictures have been regarded as the products of industry, the same as steel, aluminum and butter. The motive power of any American industry is competition. As soon as an industry enjoys monopolistic conditions, it tends to become moribund and obsolescent. If it can make a profit without effort, if it lacks the stimulus of competition, its product will soon degenerate. Usually a substitute product appears in the market and the public accepts the substitute.

During the past few years, motion pictures have, on the whole, been degenerating. It is true that some of the best pictures ever made appeared during this period, but they were exceptions and were often made at great risk, the larger studios shifting the financial risk to those who still have confidence in American taste. During the war years, the assumption was that the public would accept anything.

One of the dangers to this industry is the ownership of theaters by particular studios and the allocation of territory to particular studio-theater owners. That means that it is difficult for an independently produced picture, no matter how excellent, to find outlets. The anti-monopoly activities of the Department of Justice and the recent consent decrees on the subject may not solve the problem, for by what means can one force a theater-owner to show a picture which he does not want to show? Obviously, it continues to be possible for the actual owners of theaters to do their own selecting and to decline to select the pictures of independents, no matter how meritorious. The independent producers, therefore, have to make arrangements with the large companies for distribution. How important this phase of the business is can be judged by the fact that last year the independents produced 53 per cent of the pictures.

The independent is further hampered by the general financial conditions that obtain in this industry. The big companies often finance their own operations; the independents usually have to make arrangements with a California or a New York bank which naturally regards a picture as any other equity that comes up for a loan.

Bankers want a safe formula: Boy meets girl and there are complications ending in happiness. For westerns or comedy, there are similar formulae. In recent years, particularly during the war years, pictures with messages, documentaries, propaganda, especially of a leftist nature, had a vogue. They are now anathema because the public simply will not go to them. The public wants to be entertained, not lectured. The bankers seem to prefer pictures with girls, girls and more girls. The assumption is that the American people are sex mad and will pay more money for sex, even vicariously in the movies, than for anything else.

The present box office shows them—particularly the New York bankers—to be absolutely wrong. The fact is that "The Keys of the Kingdom," "Going My Way," "The Bells of St. Mary," "Song of Bernadette," and "Joan of Arc" prove that Americans want something different and better.

The larger the institution, the more difficult it is to get away from fixed formulae. That is true not only in motion pictures but in everything. That is why governments become so wound in red-tape. There is a point in bigness where efficiency, initiative, sheer genius become a diminishing return. Therefore, in Hollywood, the independents represent the competitive stimulant for the new, the bold and the wonderful. The big companies will not take the risky lead; they will follow the risk that wins.

As for television, its challenge is competitive. The motion-picture industry will have to fight to get folks to leave the comforts of home for the theater. Its pictures will have to justify the additional effort and cost.

CALCIUM IN BAG IN SHOULDER

When pain occurs in the shoulder, the first thought is that it is either a sprain or arthritis. In arthritis, the pain is present when the patient is at rest; in a sprain, pain is present when any movement of the arm is made.

However, there is another condition that occurs at times and most of us forget about it. It is bursitis—inflammation of the lining of the bursa, or bag of water, which helps to protect the shoulder joint. This little bag of water, used by Nature to protect joints, also is found in the back of the heel, back of the elbow, back of the knee, front of the knee (housemaid's knee). Pain is caused by injury and sometimes by infection.

Unfortunately, the water in this bag sometimes dries up and the bag fills with calcium (lime) which, of course, causes pain whenever the arm or shoulder is moved.

For a number of years, treatment of this subdeltoid bursitis, as it is called, was opening up the joint and scraping out the calcium. Later other methods—X-ray and the use of alcohol injections to relieve pain—came into use. These methods helped many cases and avoided the necessity for an operation.

That a simple surgical method gives "dramatic" results is reported by Drs. P. O. Pelland and W. Hoffman in "Medical Annals of District of Columbia," Washington. The treatment consists of: (1) Removal of the calcium through an incision about an inch or less and (2) exploring or scraping part of the lining of the bursa.

The operation is advised where pain is present and the X-ray shows presence of calcium in the bursa. Drs. Pelland and Hoffman performed this simple operation in 38 cases, on 36 of which it produced complete relief. In one of the two failures, some calcium had not been removed; a second operation gave complete relief.

The lesson from the above is that where there is a pain in the shoulder which does not go away within a few days, an X-ray should be made. If our usual methods of movements and massage are used and a bursa containing calcium is present, the symptoms will be aggravated.

It Sure Makes a Comfortable Roost

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—Secretary Acheson of State is boiling mad at John Foster Dulles for making speeches criticizing the North Atlantic Pact.

Acheson blew up when he read Dulles' speech in Cleveland before the Federal Council of Churches lambasting the State Department for inviting Norway to join the pact while under Russian pressure. He warned that this might provoke Russia into attacking.

When Acheson read this he remarked: "Dulles just can't get over the fact that Dewey lost the election and he isn't now Secretary of State."

Capital News Capsules

Tempting Senator Morse—The Democrats have tried to tempt independent Republican Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon to quit the Senate. The bait is a lifetime job as U. S. Circuit Judge on the West Coast. Senator Magnuson of Washington was sent as emissary to Morse with the offer, but the forthright Senator from Oregon refused to be kicked upstairs, telling Magnuson that the Democrats would have to beat him at the polls if they wanted to get him out of the Senate.

North Carolina Blood Is Thick—Senator Clyde Hoey of North Carolina is on the Senate Expenditures Committee, now engaged in probing alleged political favoritism inside the R.F.C. whereby ex-Congressman Frank Hancock of North Carolina used his brother-in-law, Ernest Howard, inside the R.F.C., to arrange government loans for clients. This has netted various fees for Mr. Hancock. Although Senator Hoey is taking no part in the Senate investigation, his committee is. And during the investigation Senator Hoey showed up as guest of honor at a luncheon given by Mrs. Ernest Howard, who is the wife of one man under investigation and the sister of the other—Frank Hancock.

Stronger Than Pacts—There's been plenty of publicity attached to the fact that Norway has stuck its neck way out by rebuffing Russia and agreeing to a mutual-defense pact with the United States. Unpublicized, however, is the fact that Norway is also quietly building up friendship with the United States through exchange of students. . . . About 600 Norwegian students are now studying in the U.S.A. and, in reciprocity, the University of Oslo is conducting a summer course for American students. The Norwegian teachers instruct in English, and this summer student exchange is helping to create a friendship even stronger than treaties. . . . Interested Americans can get details from the Norwegian Embassy in Washington. They have until March 25 before the enrollment deadline closes.

Watch The Warships—The American Embassy has warned Chinese Nationalist Government to keep a close eye on the American warships that were turned over to the Chinese Navy at the end of the war. Ambassador Stuart doesn't want any of our warships deserting to the Chinese Communists. A couple of weeks ago a British cruiser that London had transferred to the Chinese suddenly went over to the Communist side.

Corporations vs. Colleges

Frank W. Abrams, chairman of the far-flung Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, has spent 32 years in the refining business—highly successful, plodding years, not too exciting as measured by outside standards. Beginning as a junior engineer in Standard's Eagle Refining Plant, Abrams slowly worked his way up.

And having reached the very top of the world's largest oil corporation, he began to get ready to retire the other day, and began to realize how exciting life can be.

He got contaminated first of all by sitting down with some university students who were graduating from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Then he met with teachers and students of other colleges, began to study their overcrowded condition and their financial needs.

As a result, Frank Abrams has became a quiet, consistent crusader for education, and in so doing has posed an important question to the nation: "Can corporations contribute to colleges and universities?"

Under current court rulings they can't. If they have a business interest in sending some of their men to a certain college, or if a college is working on a technical problem of value to a corporation, then a corporation can contribute. But the courts have held, thus far, that a corporation cannot help a college simply for the purpose of aiding general education.

However, Abrams, pointing to the fact that the enrollment of American colleges has recently increased 60 per cent, against a general population increase of only 9 per cent, claims that corporations should be permitted to contribute to colleges.

"The peace, prosperity and security of this nation may depend as much on the way we treat our teachers and our religious leaders as it does on any other single influence," says Abrams. "We must offer them more than bread and butter and a chance to do good.

"The American people insist that the legal persons which we call corporations have responsibilities to society," he adds. "In our view, the American people are right."

At any rate, Abrams has decided to make a test case of his theory before the courts and see whether it is permissible for corporations to make contributions to general education—there being no strings attached to influence the university's way of teaching.

Whether Mr. Abrams is right or wrong on this point, we don't know. But certainly, in his general desire to help education, he is sincerely trying to do his part as a Servant of Brotherhood.

Trading with Communists

General MacArthur has sent a long, secret report to the Army Department urging the United States Government to do business with the Chinese Communists. He recommends that the U. S. Military Government in Japan be permitted to buy coal and coke from the North China mines now in the hands of Chinese Communists. . . . MacArthur urges trade with the Communists because it will save the American Government nearly $35 a ton on the price of coal for Japan. (It costs $50 a ton to ship the coal to Japan from the United States, while the Chinese will sell it for around $15 a ton.) Also MacArthur thinks U. S. trade would tend to keep Chinese Communist leaders from getting too chummy with Moscow.

Western World Has Given More Than Notice Against Armed Attack; Practical Cooperation Is Set Up

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 21 — The western world has given through the North Atlantic pact something more than notice that it will resist armed attack from an aggressor. What has been evolved is a new approach to the problem of world organization—a new league of nations within the United Nations structure.

Means of military cooperation to resist attack have been formulated, to be sure, but there is also set up machinery for practical cooperation in the field of economic as well as cultural programs.

The new pact is the long-awaited answer to the veto exercised by the Soviet Government inside the U. N., where all manner of cooperation has been blocked and where also no machinery to police international disorder has been established, even though the U. N. Charter specifically provided ways and means for such steps to be taken.

A military council or staff to invoke military protection will have been brought into being precisely as the Security Council itself was to have functioned. Provision is made for Russian cooperation, because the entire pact is related to the U. N. and any military measures that are taken can be superseded whenever the Security Council, in which Russia sits, gives evidence of taking over the task.

Thus the new treaty does not narrowly confine itself to the hypothetical contingency in which Russia might be the aggressor but to the broader field of preserving peace everywhere in the area designated. This is geographically very large, and presumably the Latin - American countries will be invited to join so that in the end almost all the world except Russia will be united and a practical means of using physical force to enforce the decisions of the powers will have been provided.

It will be noted that the treaty defines an armed attack against any one of the nations signing it as including any attack on the forces of occupation. This says plainly to Russia that an attack on the Berlin airlift would bring all the signatory powers into common consultation so that united action in resistance would then follow.

It is significant, too, that while no measures of a military nature are to be brought into play and the obligation is merely to consult when "political independence" is threatened, there is nevertheless a pointed hint that Communist activity inspired by Moscow and designed to overthrow parliaments by intimidation will have the closest scrutiny of the powers signing the new treaty.

It is important to bear in mind that the framers of the new pact, benefiting by the experience of the 1919 debate in the Senate on the League of Nations covenant, made it clear that each country signing the treaty is to be the sole judge of whether military aid is to be furnished and the extent thereof. This means Congress will have to declare war or authorize the use of the armed services of the United States or else pass laws to be kept in force which will permit instant action without further congressional action. This, however, is something outside the treaty and in a sense is a domestic question. It is one for each country to decide.

Both Houses of Congress will be in on any decisions that will authorize the President as Commander-in-Chief to use the armed services when there isn't even time for a declaration of war. In the past Congress has found itself ratifying a state of war rather than embarking on a declaration of war. The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor brought World War II to the United States and resistance was ordered by the Executive without waiting for an official declaration by Congress, though it followed a couple days later. This twilight zone, so to speak, may occasion some debate in Congress later on but ought to be resolved realistically.

Meanwhile, the text of the treaty has been written in such a way as to make possible virtually unanimous support in the Senate. This, incidentally, would be a splendid way to notify all potential aggressors that America is united now in wanting everybody in the world to know that an armed attack on the powers which signed the treaty will be regarded as cause for American intervention. Had such a policy been known to the Germans either in 1914 or in 1939, the whole course of world history might have been different.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In Friday's essay, I was laying down the facts about Mr. Truman's anti-lynching proposal and the trivial record of the modern Ku Klux Klan as a terroristic force compared with the record of the C.I.O.

To resume the lesson:

Inasmuch as lynching is defined as "punishment" inflicted without due process of law and inasmuch as the victims of the great C.I.O. terror in many communities were not accused of any violation of law, these C.I.O. crimes may be something even worse than lynchings. There is a presumption that the victim of a genuine lynching by a mob is at least suspected of some crime and that there is some evidence against him, as a matter of fact, he usually is guilty, but the propaganda against southern lynchings was so wild and the people are so nearly incapable of thought when their emotions are stirring that most of our citizens think of lynchee as an innocent victim of race prejudice.

If you won't admit that, you certainly have to admit that he invariably is suspected and accused and would be tried according to law if he were not lynched beforehand. And you have to admit that there is absolutely no suspicion or charge of an offense against law in the case of a young woman who is quietly sitting at her place in a factory, earning her living when the goons of the C.I.O. crash in and pummel and beat her.

I recall no instance in the career of the modern Ku Klux Klan in which any woman was physically abused. But the goons of the C.I.O. are no more hesitant to slug a woman than a man.

In view of the fact that the victims of the lynching mobs of the C.I.O. do not stand accused of any offense against law, these beatings and stonings are somewhat worse than lynching. As far as I know, we have no word for mob action against unaccused persons. It is worse than lynching, but we haven't given it a name.

Now I have pointed out that although these goons go barefaced about their terror they are masked nevertheless by anonymity because they are imported from other cities to do their criminal work and probably never will be seen again by their victims. So the masking of the Klansmen, which has been so loftily denounced as cowardice, is no worse than the masking that is practiced by the goons of Philip Murray's invisible empire.

There has been much testimony proving that the C.I.O. goons do filter into town as Hitler's "tourists" sifted into Norway for the putsch. But, to support my charge, I refer you to the record of the most recent case in the congressional reports. This is the case of the goon terror at the Shakespeare factory in Kalamazoo last December 1.

The report said: "The list of 27 cars (Exhibit H) is but a part of the motor cavalcade which invaded Kalamazoo. The press and police estimated that there were between 30 and 40 automobiles carrying between 200 and 300 men. Sworn testimony established the fact that the occupants swarmed into the plant parking lot and, in front of the main entrance and then invaded the plant. They broke windows, overturned and damaged cars and burned one truck. They shamefully beat in-

Q—How did the sport of roller skating originate?

A—The sport was started early in the 18th century by an unknown Hollander. One summer, unwilling to wait until the canals froze, he nailed crude wooden spools to strips of wood attached to his shoes and off he bumped along the roads of Holland. In the next century the sport spread slowly through England, France and Germany.

If you have, among the war trophies in your home, any "unloaded" weapons, souvenir shells or other munitions, you'd be smart to get in touch with the Army or Navy—quick. Fred Kennel recently bought a house in Washington, D. C. In it, he found two bazooka rockets, left behind by the previous tenant. He asked the Navy Disposal Unit to look them over. Lt. Wilbur Brooks, left, and Lt. Charles J. Dorigan did. They found the rockets were deadly weapons, fully armed with the safety pins dislodged. They said the rockets would have exploded if dropped from three or four feet.

Contract Is Given For Widening of Saugerties Street

Albany, March 21—A $19,150 contract for widening of Partition street in the village of Saugerties, has been awarded to Leon Reynolds, of Northville, R. D. 1, N. Y., by Bertram D. Tallamy, New York state superintendent of public works.

On the east side of Partition street the widening will begin at a point about 85 feet south of the center of Main street and will extend to Russell street. On the west side of Partition street the widening will begin a little more than 100 feet south of the center of Main street and end about opposite Post street. On each side the widening will vary from 0 to 4 feet.

Existing curb and parts of the existing sidewalks will be removed and a new curb built. The widening will consist of a 7-inch cement concrete foundation for pavement under a wearing surface of asphaltic concrete. New catch basins will be provided to permit storm water to flow into the existing storm sewers.

This widening should ease the congestion in these three blocks. Construction will be speeded up if motor traffic will by-pass this section as much as possible until work is finished. The work will be under the direction of J. S. Bixby, district engineer in charge of the department's Poughkeepsie office.

Elks Endorse National Guard Recruiting Drive

Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B.P.O.E., expresses its endorsement of the current recruiting drive of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion in the following resolution:

It having been brought to the attention of this organization that the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, located at the State Armory in Kingston, N. Y., is conducting a recruiting campaign to continue for the next 30 days, we wish to take this means of endorsing this campaign and express our desire to lend the fullest possible support to their efforts.

The National Guard Unit in our city has an unequalled record of service and is believed to be the oldest military unit in the whole United States. Its activities and purposes are well known to us all. In war, in peace, in times of disaster and emergency, the Guard stands ready and willing to serve our needs.

The young men of our community should fully realize the tremendous importance the Guard plays not only locally and nationally, but in providing social, recreational, educational and character-building activities. The opportunities to serve and benefit are available now and we urge the young men of our community to take advantage of them.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—American women would be more charming if they quit acting like men in some ways—and more like men in other ways.

This gratifying discovery isn't my own—although, naturally, I've suspected it for some time. It comes from a beauty expert—Helen Fraser, director of the Barbizon School of Fashion Modeling.

Each week Miss Fraser casts a critical eye on the charms of some 200 hopeful would-be fashion models, of whom perhaps 20 to 25 make the grade.

'Awful' Mannerisms

This pleasant task has led her to the conclusion that too many girls today have developed manly mannerisms, which is awful, instead of a manly inner character, which would be fine, indeed.

"Too much athletics," said Miss Fraser, "has overdeveloped the leg muscles of girls, and they walk like boys. They—how shall I say it?—they positively swagger.

"They throw their hands about in gestures like boys. And they even move their lips like boys when they talk. Something like this."

Miss Fraser, a delicate brunette, then gave a restrained imitation of Jimmy Durante.

Another of her pet peeves is the way many girls let cigarettes dangle from their mouths while pawing through their handbags for a lighter.

"I'm afraid we have you men to blame for the fact girls smoke in a masculine way," she said. There was a pause while Miss Fraser put a cigarette between her pretty lips and held it there in a graceful feminine manner until a man in the room rushed over and held up a match.

What They Should Copy

"I hate to say this about men," she went on, "because I love men. I wish women would pick up more of men's virtues—such as tolerance, their lack of pettiness and their friendly attitude. I don't think men are as much on the defensive as women. Women lack self-assurance."

Going in more detail into the beauty faults of the younger generation, Miss Fraser said the habit of carrying shoulder bags and wearing loafers and ballet slippers was giving many girls thick ankles and a lop-sided figure.

"It is seldom that you run into girls with good posture," she said glumly. "Too many swaybacks. And politeness?—There isn't too much of that. The more I see of young girls the more reactionary and Victorian I get.

"The job is to feminize them again—make them young ladies instead of hoydens."

Points Out Errors

Then she itemized some common beauty errors by occupational groups:

Stenographers—"You have often a serious problem of hip spread here."

Housewives — "That gone-to-look."

Waitresses—"They develop tremendous muscles in the arms and legs. And often eat too much."

Salesgirls—"They do very well, because they are generally fashion and makeup conscious."

Manicurist—"Too much makeup."

Factory Workers—"Muscles and hip spread."

Getting 'Hippier'

Her researches have led her to conclude that the American female figure is becoming taller and wider at the beam.

"We are getting calls now for fashion models with 38-inch hips," she said. "The limit used to be 36 inches."

But she said that the most common figure defect in women is that "they are too small in the bosom compared to the width of the hips—too much like a salt shaker or a pyramid."

Miss Fraser's own measurements, reading from up to down, are 34, 23, and 34. The middle figure is for her waist.

"I'm too small," she said. But her voice wasn't at all unhappy.

Willie—Pop ain't in. He's gone over to the golf club.

The minister frowned, and little Willie added in a reassuring tone,

Willie—Oh, not to play golf. Nothin' like that on Sunday! Just to drink a few highballs and play a little stud poker.

Mont Pleasant Routs Kingston at Saratoga, 71-45

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Montgomery Ward Keglers Hit 3329 to Capture City Championship

Raiders Outclass DUSO Champions

It was the same group of youngsters who represented Mont Pleasant, but definitely not the same team. For that matter, neither was Kingston High and that, in a nutshell, is the story of Mont Pleasant's overwhelming 71-45 conquest of the Maroons before nearly 4500 fans, Saturday night at Convention Hall in Saratoga Springs.

Outclassed in every department, the Kiasmen fell apart in the second half of the annual intersectional classic and at the end of the game were as thoroughly whipped as any Kias-coached club in recent years.

Power Packed Lineup

Mont Pleasant was on a mission of revenge and it had all the weapons. It had superior size, weight and most important, depth. It flashed five men who hit in double figures and the flashiest basketeer Kingston had run up against this season—a hard driving guard, Bill Manikas, who scored 16 points and played a superb floor game.

The more than 1,000 Kingston rooters, who made the long trek northward and then risked chilblains and pneumonia while Convention Hall officials took their good old time about opening the doors, had chances to cheer through flashes of the first and second periods. As late as the end of the half, a spark of hope flamed in the Kingston rooting section, but Mont Pleasant's 26-point splurge in the third period broke the game apart.

Holstein Hits Early

"Champ" Holstein kept the Maroon in the game in the first two periods with his inimitable left handed hook shots. Trailing 3-8 and early rout staring them in the face, the Kiasmen rallied on two spectacular shots by Holstein and a pop shot by Mort Gazlay. Ronnie Scheffel hit from outside with one of his rare sets and Holstein calmly collected two fouls to put Kingston ahead 14-13.

But that was as far as they went. The whirling dervish Manikas promptly unloaded a layup and Schliff hit from the outside to end the period 16-13 in favor of Mont Pleasant.

The depth of Coach Sig Makofski's squad was evident in the second half. The Red Raiders trotted out on the court and before the spectators had comfortably settled themselves, a substitute, Lundgren, drove in for a pair of layups and a 32-22 margin, before Ronnie Scheffel converted two fouls.

Scores Five Fields

This same Lundgren was to unload five baskets in the bristling third period onslaught by Mont Pleasant and Mike Brownley, the center, who had been shackled in the first half, suddenly caught fire. This pair and Manikas were murder in the second half when they consistently outfoxed the Maroon defenses. Brownley was loose under the basket time and again with not a Kingston player near for sucker layup shots.

Brownley scored 19 points to pace the Red Raiders, while Manikas hit for 16. Bob Oudt and Tom Lundgren each had 11 and Schliff, another sub, hit for 10.

Between them Holstein and Scheffel hit for 27 points but they weren't enough. The superior depth and all-around class of the Red Raiders, a varsity that carried over intact from last year's loss to Kingston, was too much in the stretch.

Maroon Collapses

By the end of the third period, Mont Pleasant had rolled up a 54-37 lead and Kingston had begun to come apart at the seams. The complete disintegration of the Maroon squad was visible even from the foul line where they missed attempted conversions by ridiculous margins.

Beyond the starting five, Kingston had little with which to match the Makofski powerhouse. Coach Kias yanked Keefe Chambers early and made a few substitutions, while Coach Makofski substituted freely without any visible dimunition of scoring power. Makofski yanked Killeen and the highly touted Trowbridge early in the first period and their substitutes trotted in to act like seasoned veterans.

This was a great Mont Pleasant squad. The margin of victory came as a shock to the Maroon faithfuls but it would have taken quite a high school basketball team to beat the Red Raiders Saturday night. A lot better than Kingston could possibly have.

But, as the broken hearted fan remarked between sips of coke, it's still one and one, isn't it?

• Bagatelles:

A state of normalcy in the tenpin leagues supplemented the wave of wild excitement attendant with the opening of the Bowlatorium last week. When Johnny Ferraro and Marge Jansen lead their respective divisions, the news is about as exciting as a Republican sweep in Vermont. Ferraro rolled a 290 single and 658 triple in the Major League. Mrs. Jansen's 563 was six pins better than Betty Bailey's 557 for distaff honors.

Economists noted with equanimity that huge crowds flocked to the Bowlatorium; the Bowlodrome did not close its doors as was predicted in some quarters; and bands of keglers loaded down with paraphernalia were seen straggling in and out (in a steady stream) of the Central Recreation. The tenpin Armageddon has not yet resolved itself.

• The Quip Magnificent:

From a personal standpoint, the most exciting development of the week was John MacLellan's deft handling of an anonymous communique which sought information on so-called local bowling cliques.

Said MacLellan in his richest Boston accent:

"A clique is something that develops when some new bowling organization is formed and somebody is left out. . . ." Neither Solomon nor Confucius could improve on that one.

ABC Keglers Set For Home Strech

Atlantic City, N. J., March 21 (AP)—Bowlers competing in the American Bowling Congress tournament have one chance in three to collect a prize. That's the ratio the prize committee has set for the 46th annual tournament, which today enters the 38th of a 57-day run.

There are 90 trophies, medals, and watches to be presented in addition to some $300,000 in cash. The cash awards run from $250 for the team winning the five-man championship to five dollars for the low men in the singles and doubles events. A total of 12,201 prizes will be awarded.

Jimmie Smith's five of South Bend, Ind., has a lead toward the $2,500 team prize and its going to take a score better than the Smiths' 3027 to beat them out.

The first place in the doubles will be worth $1,000. Leaders are Charles Carnegie and Ed Montgomery, of Philadelphia, who have a 1306 total. Howard Eakel, Grand Rapids, Mich., will collect $500 if his 709 score stands up while John Small, Chicago, will collect $1,000 if his all-events total of 1941 tops the field.

Few Changes Made

A few bowlers rolled their way into favorable spots yesterday. Walter Elliott, Virden, Ill., coalminer, posted a 692 score to take seventh place in the singles. Lawrence Block, of Decatur, Ill., took eighth position with a 691.

Edward Kraft and Frank Carr, of Fort Wayne, Ind., rolled 1261 to go into ninth place in doubles.

There were no changes in the teams events last night but there are good prospects of a change tonight when the crack Stegmaier Gold Medal Beer team of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., rolls.

702-Average Squad Has 1114, 1075, 1140

Shooting 329 pins over their tournament average, an inspired band of Montgomery Ward keglers captured the 1949 Kingston Bowling Association city championship last night with a spectacular 3329 series at the Bowlatorium.

Led by W. Ortmann with 519, the department store trundlers knocked off gross games of 1114, 1075 and 1140 to pull down $145 in prize money.

The net score rolled by the new champions was 2435 and they received a total of 894 pins handicap. The 1140 was highest gross single score in the tournament.

The newly crowned champions are a 702-average squad and received 298 pins a game under the 100-per cent handicap system which was used for the first time in the history of the K.B.A.

Barbers Second

Mannie Calao's Barbers took second money with 3249; Mauro's Grill of East Kingston was third with 3173; Hercules Maintenance shot 3164 for fourth place, while the American Legion's 3156 was good for fifth.

Individual scores of the Montgomery Ward squad were J. Cave 433; Ray Mitchell 490; T. Bonomo 488; W. Ortmann 519 and Dick Bertie 495.

Vining and Smith of the City League won the net division with 2830 for first place money of $75. Colonials took down second money with 2818.

Colonials won $20 for their 1051 single which was high in the net division.

Harold Broskie won $35 in additional prize money by shooting high single of 244 and high series of 645.

Large Crowd Attends

The two-day tournament was attended by huge crowds at the Bowlatorium. The tourney started Satruday night with ceremonies and the crowds continued to flock in all day Sunday.

Church Schools Plan New City-Wide Group

Representatives and superintendents of five Kingston church schools met Sunday night at the First Presbyterian Church to formulate a city-wide organization. Those attending the meeting found several problems that were community wide and could best be approached on a city-wide basis.

It was agreed that religious education is a most vital factor in any child's development—if the next generation is to have high moral and ethical standards.

A committee was appointed to contact every church school superintendent in the city so that all church schools might be represented at the next meeting when the local association will be organized and its future action planned under the guidance of the Federal Council of Churches.

The committee will include the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, St. John's Episcopal Church; Chester Raltz, Jr., First Presbyterian Church; Clifford Smith and Clarence L. Dumm, St. James Methodist Church; Harry Rigby, First Dutch Reformed Church; Kenneth Hicok, Fair Street Reformed Church.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Sobsey of 203 Pearl street celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary in St. Petersburg, Fla., March 17. They are spending six weeks vacation near there and are accompanied by their children, Barbara and Richard.

Miss Maureen Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Davis, of 50 Plymouth avenue, a freshman at New York State College for Teachers at Albany was recently named to the dean's list for the first semester.

Harp Soloist Will Play in Concert Of Sinfonietta

VICTOR SALVI

Victor Salvi, who has received considerable recognition as an outstanding harpist, will be the harp soloist with the St. Louis Sinfonietta in its concert at Kingston High School Auditorium tomorrow night, 8:30 o'clock. The Sinfonietta is the third in the current series of Kingston Community Concert Association programs.

Salvi will play the harp solo in Introduction and Allegro by Maurice Ravel. The selection for strings, flute, clarinet and harp was composed in 1905. Almost a concertino in form, it is one of the composer's more ardent works. A harp solo outlines the principal theme of the Allegro movement. There is a brilliant harp cadenza recalling the principal subjects of both movements and the work ends on a brilliantly vigorous note.

Still in his twenties, Victor Salvi has been appearing with orchestras and ensembles. Born in Chicago, he attended the public schools in that city and studied harp with his brother, Alberto, one of the world's greatest performers on that instrument. At the age of 16, he won a national contest for all instruments in high school, and as a result was given six scholarships to colleges.

Several years later he organized a small concert ensemble bearing his name, and, as harp soloist, toured throughout the eastern section of the country. The outbreak of the war, however, cut this venture short, Salvi serving with the navy during the ensuing four years.

Upon his discharge from service he entered the field of radio, where he has been appearing on various networks.

The Sinfonietta, conducted by Paul Schreiber will play in addition to the Ravel number; Adagio, Corelli; Overture to the Marriage of Figaro, Mozart; Symphony No. 5 in flat major, Schubert; From San Domingo and Jamaican Rumba, Benjamin; and a collection of Jerome Kern melodies.

Second Production Of Passion Play Set At First Dutch Church

The second annual production of The Life of Christ, a passion play, will be presented at the First Dutch Church Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, April 5 and 6.

A cast of 108, with five narrators, will depict great events in the life of Christ, arranged in 32 scenes. The play, similar to the famous passion play of Oberammergau, Bavaria, has been modernized by the use throughout of the language of the Revised Standard Version of the New Testament, 1946 translation. The work of compiling and editing has been done by Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool, wife of the pastor of the church.

The new passion play was presented for the first time last year March 16 and 17 at the First Dutch Church. This year, the play has been cut to 32 scenes from the original 34, because of the mechanics of production. Improvements in the scenery have been made.

Proceeds of the play, which are obtained by a free will offering, are used to further the religious educational work of the church through its Sunday School.

Boston Choir Sings Excellent Program

(Contributed)

The Boston University Choral Art Society under the direction of Dr. H. Augustine Smith sang a concert at St. James Methodist Church Saturday night. The choir was excellent and the program balanced enough with serious music and other types so as not to be droll. Approximately 500 attended the concert.

Many of the selections were sacred music. Included was a group with music from the Greek and Russian church liturgy and Gloria Patri et Filio by Palestrina representing the Roman Catholic Church liturgy. Other numbers included Psalm Forty-Three, Judge Me, O God and Plead My Cause by Mendelssohn; My Soul Doth Magnify the Lord, from "The Christmas Oratorio," St. Saens; Alleluia by Thompson dedicated to Serge Koussevitzky, Tanglewood, 1941, and sung by the Boston choir in honor of Dr. Koussevitzky; Battle Hymn of the Republic arranged by Roy Ringwald; Apostrophe to the Heavenly Hosts, Willan.

Milton Callichy as tenor soloist sang Love Sounds the Alarm, Handel. Hazel Farwell was the soprano soloist with the choir in singing the Italian Street Song by Victor Herbert.

The choir sang two selections from The Prairie by Lukas Foss and the Men's Glee Club of the chorus sang Stout Hearted Men and Hi Away Home.

For the instrumental solo of the evening, Bernard Smith, played as an organ solo, Now Thank We All Our God by Karg-Elert.

The choir which is on spring tour left Kingston Sunday morning for Snyder near Buffalo where they gave a concert in the afternoon. Afterward the group was to give a concert in Ontario, Canada. Saturday night's concert was the second for the choral art society at St. James Church. (R.F.G.)

Harold Schwab, Kerhonkson, Weds June Williams, Goshen

Miss June Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams of Goshen, became the bride of Harold C. Schwab, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Schwab of Kerhonkson, March 6, at First Methodist Church, Torrington. The Rev. Arthur Tedcastle, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony at 4 p. m.

James Vaill sang Because and O, Perfect Love. Mrs. Grace Hand Kelley was organist. The ceremony was performed by candlelight.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an 18th century style gown of white satin styled with high neckline of silk illusion edged with seed pearls and bugle beads; long pointed sleeves; fitted bodice with bustle back terminating in a full court train. Her fingertip veil was caught to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias.

Miss Thelma Williams, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a nile green taffeta and lace gown with matching mitts and a bouquet and floral headpiece of yellow daffodils and white narcissus. The bridesmaids were the Misses Gladys, Ester and Violet Williams, other sisters; Miss Marilyn Sjogren of Brookline, a cousin of the bride. They wore rainbow hued gowns of orchid, pink, aqua and yellow, matching lace mitts and headpieces and bouquets of mixed hyacinths. Miss Barbara Leathers, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and wore an orchid taffeta gown. The flower girls were Miss Carol Vaill of Lakeville, Conn., and Miss Judith Van Klenk of this city, both cousins of the bride. They wore pink taffeta gowns and carried baskets of flowers.

George Schwab was best man for his brother. Ushers were William Wright, Francis Evans and Leonard Scaccia of Lagrangeville, and Alex Testler of Kerhonkson. Rodney Leathers was ring bearer.

A reception was held in the church chapel for 200 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Schwab left for a wedding trip to Florida. For traveling the bride wore a beige gabardine suit with brown accessories and a pink camellia corsage. Upon returning they will live in Kerhonkson where Mr. Schwab is connected with his father in the Schwab Lumber Co.

Mrs. Schwab is a graduate of Falls Village Regional High School and attended King's College in Newcastle, Del. Mr. Schwab attended Ellenville High School and served two and a half years in the navy.

Paris (NEA)—Paris hat styles for spring emerge from clouds of misty veiling which is used extravagantly to enhance the feminine look.

Crowns are inspired by the bowler hat. Brims which are subtly shaped to the face usually shoot off to one side. Feathers are often used to stress the movement of a brim, as is the case of the dramatic white felt cocktail hat (center) of Maud Roser's design. Widespreading heron feathers repeat the contour of the brim of a hat which is completely swathed by a chin-tied face veil of flattering white net.

Mary Stuart's cap, trailing clouds of veiling, inspires the hat (inset left) styled for evening wear. This is fashioned of water-blue satin, encrusted with heavy gold embroidery and sheathed with net.

Heavy embroidery also embellishes hats of straw. The lagoon-green straw (inset right) designed for formal wear, features an embroidery scroll of heavy iridescent green gold.—ROSETTE HAEGROVE, NEA Staff Correspondent.

A DISINTERESTED CONVERSATION

A man writes me: At a drug store counter my wife and I had to sit in separate places. The young woman next to me began talking. Nothing personal, just about something that happened behind the counter. Soon there was a seat next to me and my wife joined me. She thought I knew the girl and after awhile asked me to introduce her. This embarrassed everyone. The young stranger did not offer her name and left almost immediately. I called my wife down for this, and she retorted I'd no business talking to a strange woman. So the argument was one of those "on into the night" experiences. Can you straighten us out?"

From your account, your wife ought to have been able to see from the girl's manner—and undoubtedly yours—that your conversation was quite accidental.

Marking Ten Set

Dear Mrs. Post: When a family crest and initials both are to be used on a tea set, where is each placed?

Answer: If the silver belonged to the wife's family and is marked with her family's crest, she may—if she wishes—put her initials on the opposite side of each piece. If it is new, it should be marked with her husband's crest or her initials, but not both. If his family has no coat of arms, but hers has, it can be marked with the lozenge of her own family's crest if she prefers this to her initials. If the silver is a gift from the bridegroom, then his crest on the outside (away from the pourer) and her initials toward the pourer, would be proper. If only a crest or initials is used, the engraving is on the side away from the pourer.

Where to Put the Soup Spoon?

Dear Mrs. Post: Where should the soup spoon be placed when through with soup in a bowl with a plate under it?

Answer: The spoon is usually left in a low, wide bowl just as it is in a soup plate. If however, the bowl is fairly small and the rim on the plate under it is wide, bowl just as it is a soup plate. If, however, the bowl is fairly small and the rim of the plate under it is wide, it might be better to put the spoon on the plate.

Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 504, "The Etiquette of Table Setting," answers many questions about silver, linen, table decorations and candlesticks. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Harold W. Christian, Navy Seaman, Weds RosemaryNetherwood

The marriage of Miss Rosemay Ann Netherwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Netherwood, 40 Yeoman street, to Harold W. Christian, seaman first class, U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Christian of the Brabrant Road, was performed Sunday at 2:30 p. m., in the Rectory of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. The Rev. John A. Flaherty officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was escorted by her father. Her gown of white satin was fashioned with a high neckline yoke of net trimmed with a bertha of Chantilly lace; fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves, full skirt with long train edged with lace. Her fingertip veil also was edged with Chantilly lace and attached to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

Miss Gertrude Netherwood, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore an aqua marquisette gown with headpiece of yellow marquisette, and carried a shower bouquet of yellow roses.

Joseph Netherwood, Jr., brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception was held at the Yacht Club for 150 guests. Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Christian left for a wedding trip to New York. For traveling she wore a navy blue suit with navy and white accessories, mouton lamb coat and corsage of yellow roses. After April 1 they will make their home in Long Beach, Calif.

Mrs. Christian attended Kingston High School and prior to her marriage was employed by the New York Telephone Company. Mr. Christian attended Kingston High School and is stationed in Long Beach, Calif. He recently returned from a Pacific cruise aboard the U.S.S. Ozbourn to China, Japan and Pearl Harbor.

Counsel Asks Trial Be Transferred; Haver Is Assisting

Hudson, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—Counsel for two young cousins charged with shooting Martin M. Kittell to death in an $800 robbery said today they wanted the trial transferred out of Columbia county.

State Supreme Court Justice William H. Murray gave the defense attorneys until Thursday to prepare papers asking the change of venue.

Trial of Richard Harvell, 18, of Hudson, and Lawrence Allgood, 19, of Union, N. J., was to have opened today.

Daniel H. Prior of Albany, attorney for Harvell, told the court that "feeling in Columbia county is running high against the defendants and the interests of justice would be better served if the case were moved out of the county." John J. Scully of Albany, attorney for Allgood, joined Prior in asking postponement.

District Attorney Thomas P. Kennedy objected to the delay on the ground the defense had had three months to prepare.

Kittell, 48-year-old widower, was the son of the late John I. Kittell, former county welfare commissioner.

Martin Kittell's body was found in the roadway of a farm, a mile north of Hudson last Nov. 21. He had been beaten and shot in the head, at least four times. His car was found abandoned on another road, about two miles north of Hudson.

The state claims that Harvell and Allgood held up Kittell in the city, robbed him of $800, forced him into his car and drove out of the city. They struck a tree and ordered Kittell out of the car. There, the police contend, Kittell turned on his captors and in a melee was knocked to the ground and shot.

Harvell and Allgood were indicted on charges of first degree murder, first degree robbery, first degree assault, kidnaping and grand larceny.

They were arrested after a Hudson tavernkeeper reported to police he had heard a shot in the wash room of his establishment early on the night Kittell was slain. Investigation revealed that the bullet found in the washroom matched those taken from Kittell's skull. Harvell and Allgood were arrested after they had been picked up with several others on descriptions of men in the tavern the night of the shooting.

Police say Harvell and Allgood admitted the gun had discharged accidentally in the wash room while they were "fussing" with it.

The authorities say Harvell made a statement on November 24 which involved Allgood and resulted in charges being placed against them.

N. LeVan Haver, Kingston attorney and former Ulster county district attorney, was named a special prosecutor to present the state's case by the Columbia county district attorney.

Marlborough Youth Held for Auto Theft

Charged with the theft of an automobile, Paul Yereance, 18, of Marlborough, waived examination when arraigned on a first degree grand larceny charge in Newburgh City Court this morning, Newburgh police reported. He will be held for action of the Orange County Grand Jury.

Yereance was arrested at his home Sunday afternoon by state police from the Highland sub-station after they found the automobile, allegedly stolen from Samuel Delson of 191 Broadway, Newburgh, abandoned in the village of Marlborough. State police charged Yereance stole the automobile in Newburgh Thursday night in order to drive home.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 21 (AP)—Slight early gains were wiped out in the stock market today in the midst of dull trading.

Most of the prices showed only fractional changes either above or below the line, and on balance they were virtually unchanged.

Interest settled on individual issues for the most part. Among the major groups, utilities were slightly higher, but oils, steels, motors and rails were mixed.

Mail order and retail shares were mostly higher in reflection of recent forecasts that the March-April period of Easter sales would not compare too badly with last year's high volume. Currently department store sales are suffering by comparison with last year's early Easter.

Spiegel Inc. and Bigelow-Sanford touched new highs for the year. Farnsworth Television & Radio established a new low. Magnovox was lower. Directors meet tomorrow to consider dividend action. Sales for the year ended Feb. 28 were about 11 per cent under the previous year.

Transcontinental & Western Air made the best showing among the airlines which were unchanged to higher.

Others holding to the upside were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Atlantic Coast Line, Mission Corp., Goodrich, Lee Rubber, Woolworth, J. C. Penney, United Aircraft, General Electric, E. W. Bliss, and American Telephone.

Stocks in the curb market were mixed in light dealings. Higher were American Gas & Electric, Fairchild Camera, Electric Bond & Share, Pancoastal Oil, and Fairchild Engine & Aviation. Lower were Arkansas Natural Gas "A," Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, General Plywood, and Salt Dome Oil.

Grand Larceny Charges Dropped

Charges of grand larceny, second degree, against Harold Post, Jr., 24, and his brother, Foster Post, 19, of Catskill were dismissed by Justice Ernest E. Schirmer after a hearing in Saugerties Saturday afternoon. The charges, arising out of the alleged theft of an Ingersoll-Rand air compressor from the property of Bert Robins at Cedargrove, were dropped because of lack of evidence, Justice Schirmer declared.

Following their dismissal, the Post brothers were re-arrested by State Police Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly on a warrant from Delaware county authorities, charging burglary, third degree. They were turned over to authorities of the town of Roxbury in Delaware county to await hearing, Sgt. Reilly reported.

Dedicate New Boys' Club in Napanoch

Napanoch, March 21—The formal dedication of the Napanoch Boys' Club took place last week when about 100 friends, guests and members participated in the special program.

Several guest speakers were heard during the program including Principal Chase of the Napanoch school; Frank Hurd, Napanoch postmaster; Reuben Benson, Patirck J. Canavan of New York city; Thomas Duffield, superintendent of the Ellenville schools; William Kelb, supervisor of the Town of Wawarsing; Jack Braun, vice-principal of the Ellenville schools; and Father James Flynn of St. Mary's Church.

Those responsible for the renovation of the Boys' Club building were Harvey Lake, Amedeo Gallo, Walter Robbins, John Schmeiser, Fritz Eck and William Mitchell.

During the ceremonies several gifts were given to the organization by Al Hazen, proprietor of Shanley's Hotel who contributed athletic equipment; Principal Braun, set of boxing gloves. An American Flag, another set of boxing gloves, a punching bag and a basketball also were donated.

Wise Says He'll Persist

New York, March 21 (AP)—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise says "I am going to speak for peace—to the last breath of my life." Rabbi Wise made the declaration last night in taking note of a statement by Catholic University professors in Washington. The professors accused Rabbi Wise of a "false and malicious" statement in saying "the largest of Christian churches is unequivocably for war." Rabbi Wise said last night at a dinner here in honor of his 75th birthday: "I will not withdraw one word, whether it be the Catholic Church, the Episcopal Church, or any other organization. I am not going to be silent."

Attorney Is Disbarred

Trenton, N. J., March 21 (AP)—Adolph Abramowitz, 4912 Bergenline avenue, West New York, was disbarred today by the New Jersey Supreme Court. Abramowitz was fined $5,000 by the Hudson County Common Pleas Court in July 1948 after failing to contest bookmaking charges. Representatives of the Hudson County Bar Association appeared before the Supreme Court last week, and asked that Abramowitz be "disciplined."

Wins Week's Delay

White Plains, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—Gerard Graham Dennis, 29, charged with a series of robberies that allegedly netted him $600,000 in furs and jewelry in a transcontinental crime spree, won a week's delay for pleading in Westchester county court today. Dennis was named in 12 indictments charging a series of robberies in Westchester county. The true bills contain 27 felony charges.

Kyserike Unit

The Cedar Ridge 4-H Club held its regular meeting Friday night at the home of the leader, Mrs. J. S. Cross. Ten members were present. Arlene Probst also joined the organization during the meeting.

A check for $40 was given by Mrs. Cross to the treasurer as a result of the recent Sears and Roebuck contest in which the Cedar Ridge Club was judged one of the eight outstanding dairy clubs in the state.

In honor of National 4-H Week the Cedar Ridge Homemaking Girls entertained their mothers Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Cross. Miss Peggy Brundage, assistant county agent, was a guest speaker.

Plans for the clothing project were explained during the meeting while some of the members displayed the garments already finished. Plans for the fall projects also were discussed.

A social evening with refreshments followed.

Loses Damage Suit

London, March 21 (AP)—James Forbes Whiteford, an American engineer, lost his damage suit today against a British surgeon he accused of telling him in 1942 he would soon die of cancer. An Appeals Court reversed a lower court decision under which Whiteford (U. S. address unknown) had been awarded £6,300 ($25,200) from Dr. John Bowman Hunter. Whiteford contended that when he was told he had cancer of the bladder he wound up his business affairs here, sold his furniture and went back to the United States. There, he said, an American physician advised him he did not have cancer. He said his return resulted in financial loss and blamed the doctor as negligent. The Appeals Court held the doctor could not be held negligent for making a mistaken diagnosis.

Writers Are Criticized

Berlin, March 21 (AP)—Seven Russian artists, en route to a cultural congress in New York, stopped off in Berlin today. One of them loosed a blast against "unprogressive writers" of the west. The group, which includes Composer Dmitri Shostakovich and Alexander Fadeyev, general secretary of the Soviet Writer's Union, will attend a parley called the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace, beginning Friday. The Russians were entertained here by a German Communist group.

Says War Is Possibility

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Royall told senators today that while war is not "imminent" it is "at least a possibility." Royal testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee in support of a bill to fix the active strength of the army at 837,000 officers and men, plus 750,000 in the National Guard. Calling for an "adequate" army, Royall told the committee that United States military plans ought to be made for a span of years "and not from crisis to crisis."

Cabinet Is Chosen

Nanking, March 21 (AP)—Responsible Chinese sources said today Premier Ho Ying-Chin had chosen a cabinet, ending an internal crisis. The official central news agency, these sources said, will release a full list of the cabinet officers tomorrow. Earlier the premier was reported to have completed the cabinet. But sources then said he had submitted the list of new officers to Chiang Kai-shek, retired president, for his approval.

Korea Signs Agreement

Moscow, March 21 (AP)—The government made public early today a 10-year agreement signed with the Korean People's Democratic Republic (Russian-sponsored North Korea). This is the only Korean government recognized by Russia. No mention was made of any military assistance. The agreement, which was signed March 17, will go into effect as soon as it is ratified by both sides. It was indicated this will take but a short time.

Singer Is Barred

New York, March 21 (AP)—The police department today barred blues-singer Billie Holliday from New York cabarets for the second time in less than a year. The 29-year-old Negro singer has a police record here and has been accused in San Francisco of possessing opium. She pleaded innocent to the latter charge. Miss Holiday, whose real name is Leanore B. Holiday, was to have opened last week at a Manhattan Club.

Loughran Is Elected

Chief Judge John T. Loughran of the Court of Appeals was elected to honorary membership in Taft Inn of the international legal fraternity, Phi Delta Phi, Saturday night. Following the initiation the Inn held a dinner in University Club, New York. Judge Loughran is a resident of this city.

Hiss' Trial Adjourned

New York, March 21 (AP)—Federal Judge Simon H. Rifkind today adjourned until April 11 the trial of Alger Hiss, former State Department official indicted for perjury by a spy-probing grand jury. The adjournment was agreed to by both counsel for Hiss and the government.

Families, Homes Smaller

New York (AP) — American homes, like the families they house, are getting smaller, according to a Tile Council of America report on postwar home building trends. The size of the American family dropped from 3.7 persons to 3.5 persons in 1948. Size of the average home decreased accordingly, the report says. Most popular new postwar dwelling is the two-bedroom unit suitable for a family of two to four persons. This coincides with Department of Commerce statistics that show 31.3 per cent of American families consisting of two persons and 25.6 consisting of three.

Siam Kills Dogs

Bangkok (AP)—In past years all a sick dog here could do was wander hopelessly, waiting to get killed by an automobile driver. Now Bangkok has added three more dog poisoners to its squad of six. The nine-man "humane squad" starts each day with sacks of chopped meat mixed with strychnine tablets and feed the emaciated and wretchedly ill canines.

ty Council, appearing on the same radio program, blamed Russia for the obstruction of the United Nations which forced the western powers, in Jessup's view, to make the Atlantic treaty.

"The fact is," Jessup said, "the Soviet Union hasn't yet begun to cooperate with the United Nations. Behind its Iron Curtain it is manufacturing fear. Its purpose is obvious—to create and keep up a state of tension."

De Gaullists Get Votes

Paris, March 21 (AP)—Extreme right wing de Gaullists emerged with the largest popular vote of any single party in yesterday's French cantonal (county) elections, final official returns showed today. Communists at the other political extreme fell off slightly from their 1946 total but wound up with the second highest vote of any single party. The de Gaullists polled about 25 per cent of the popular vote, the Communists about 23 per cent. The remainder went to a multiplicity of parties banded together—for the present—in the coalition which makes up the government of Radical Socialist Premier Henri Queuille.

Controls Race Time

Washington, March 21 (AP)—A modified extension of federal rent controls began a race against time in the Senate today with several big hurdles in its path. The present law fixing maximum rents for several million homes and apartments expires March 31, just 10 days away. Senator Maybank (D.-S.C.) told a reporter he wants the Senate to pass a 12 to 15 month extension that would allow some rents to increase 10 per cent "sometime late today or at least tomorrow."

M. F. Cully Escapes

of the road, jumped a guard rail and went down the bank, overturning twice and coming to rest on its side, Cully said.

Trapped in the car for several minutes, Cully said he was able to get out by kicking out the glass from the left front door. He then climbed the bank to the highway, where he was picked up by the crews of two passing snowplows.

The men took him in the snowplow truck to a state police barracks of the Putnam Valley patrol, he said, and from there state police took him to Peekskill for X-rays and then to Interlakes Tavern. At the tavern, he said, the people made necessary calls for him and arrangements were made for him to return to Kingston on the train. Interlake Tavern is about three miles north of the Westchester county line.

The accident occurred Friday afternoon when the highway was extremely slippery due to the snow which fell all day. The automobile was a total wreck, Cully reported.

Local Death Record

The funeral of Maria Lena Re, wife of William Re, was held from the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, today at 11:30 a. m. Mrs. Re died at Maple Hill Saturday. The Rev. David C. Weidner, pastor of the Bloomington Reformed Church, officiated. Cremation took place today at the Earl Memorial Crematory in Troy.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma F. Harvey, of 36 Henry street, widow of Harry Harvey, was held from the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, this morning at 10 o'clock. The services were conducted by the Rev. Kenneth H. Pearsall, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene. Burial was in St. Remy Cemetery. Bearers were H. Nichols, C. Mackey, C. Mackey, C. Jones, B. Actkins and C. Rowe.

Funeral services for Mrs. Isabelle Markle Flight, widow of Robert Flight, will be held at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, on Tuesday, March 22, at 1 p. m. Burial will be in Hurley. Mrs. Flight, who died on March 19 in Saugerties, leaves a grandson, Robert H. Flight of Brooklyn; and a brother, George Markle of New Haven, Conn. Friends may call at the funeral parlor this evening between 7 and 9 o'clock.

Gerald Griffin, 10, of 86 Abeel street, died at Rhinebeck following an ilness of nine months. He was born in Kingston the son of Evelyn Ellsworth Griffin and the late James T. Griffin. He was a student of the fourth grade at St. Mary's School. Besides his mother he is survived by four brothers, Corporal James T. Griffin of the U. S. Marines stationed in Cuba; John, Robert and Dennis. The funeral will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home at a time to be announced.

The funeral of William J. Campbell of Washington, D. C., was held Saturday at 9 a. m. at St. Matthews Cathedral, Washington. Burial followed in the Rock Creek Cemetery, Washington. Mr. Campbell died in Washington Wednesday night. He is survived by his wife, Ellen Murray Campbell, Kingston; a daughter, Rose Campbell, wife of Ambrose J. Boyd, Kingston; and three sisters, Mrs. Emma MacWilliams, Mrs. Hannah May Hill and Miss Anna Campbell, all of Washington.

Henry Motrie, formerly of this city, died Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mariam Lindsay, 52 Arnold avenue, Amsterdam. Born in Kingston on March 23, 1875, he had lived here for some time and was a member of St. Peter's Church. He had been living with his daughter in Amsterdam since last Christmas. Besides his daughter, two grandsons, R. Gardner Lindsay, Jr., and Robert J. Lindsay, and one great-granddaughter, Susan Patricia Lindsay, all of Amsterdam, survive. The funeral will be held from the Jenson & Deegan Funeral Home at 10 a. m. Wednesday and at St. Peter's Church where a high Mass of requiem will be offered at 10:30 a. m.

Mrs. Grace Edna Southard of 82 Franklin street died Saturday evening after a long illness. Mrs. Southard was a member of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Van Gonsic; one son, Glyndon M. Southard, member of the Kingston Fire Department, both of this city; a grandson, Bruce Joseph Southard; five sisters, Mrs. Paul Hull of Catskill, Mrs. David Alulis of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Sidney Hull of Kingston, Mrs. Harry Stewart of Orange, N. J., and Mrs. Audin Straub of Catskill; one brother, Burton Whitaker of Poughkeepsie and several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Casper Ketterer, 77, of 187 Wall street, who formerly conducted a bakery shop in Kingston in addition to his connections in the candy and grocery business, died late Saturday night following a long illness. Mr. Ketterer, the father of Mrs. Catherine M. Shurter, proprietor of the present Ketterer Bakery Shop, Broadway and Cornell street, was formerly associated with John H. Haas, Jr., in the Derrenbacher Sales Company at 66 Ravine street. He also conducted a grocery and confectionery store on Abeel street. Mr. Ketterer was a lifelong and faithful member of St. Peter's Church, the Holy Name Society of that parish; Kingston Council, 275, and the Fourth Degree Assembly of that council. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Catherine Shurter; Miss Marie Ketterer, Mrs. Louis Roach and Mrs. Thomas Ryan. Also surviving are seven grandchildren. His wife, Henrietta Rieser Ketterer, died several years ago. The funeral will be held Wednesday at 9 a. m. from the late home and at 9:30 a. m. at St. Peter's Church where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Office Building Robber

New York, March 21 (AP)—Burglars made a week-end foray on a nine-story midtown office building and escaped with several thousand dollars in loot, police reported today. Ransacking the building at 1674 Broadway floor-by-floor and office-by-office, the thieves fled with cash and merchandise, including jewelry. The exact amount taken is still unknown, police said. Detectives said the burglars ripped safes, broke desks and filing cabinets, upset furniture and damaged furnishings. They entered an estimated 54 offices and studios, many occupied by theatrical business and dental supply firms. The burglaries were discovered yesterday when an elevator operator, reporting for Sunday duty, found glass broken in several office door panels.

Fifth Person Is Held Following Birthday Robbery

New York, March 21 (AP)—The brother of a suspect in the robbery of a Dutchess county birthday party was under arrest here today on a charge of illegal possession of a pistol.

The prisoner, Richard Pendergast, 25, a brewery chauffeur, was picked up near his East Side home Sunday afternoon. Police said a fully-loaded automatic pistol was found in his automobile. He has no previous police record.

Detectives said Pendergast is a brother of George J. Pendergast, 22, one of four suspects captured at a state police roadblock near Hawthorne, N. Y., after the house party robbery.

Inspector John J. Quinn, of the state police barracks at Hawthorne, identified the four as Pendergast, Horace A. Nicholas, 31; John J. Infortunio, 40, and George C. Colby, 30, all of New York city.

Three men crashed the Dutchess county party at the home of Stephen Usiscohn, a New York city lithographer, near Poughkeepsie Saturday night. A fourth remained outside.

For a time the invasion of the party was regarded as a practical joke. The invaders had some drinks. Then they tired of the game and herded the party into the quarters of the farm's caretakers, after firing some shots through the floor.

Before the robbers departed they cut the telephone wires. They took $4,000 in cash and jewelry.

Inspector Quinn said all four admitted the holdup and also said they had committed 30 burglaries in Nassau county and others in Queens and Westchester counties.

Colby and Infortunio were taken before Justice of the Peace George Dietz in Poughkeepsie yesterday on charges of robbery, grand larceny and possession of guns. They pleaded innocent and a hearing was set for March 29.

Nichols and George J. Pendergast were taken to Poughkeepsie today for arraignment on similar charges.

President Assails

morning conference with Democratic leaders of Congress.

These leaders came out of the President's office with confident predictions that Congress will enact a major part of the White House legislative program.

House Speaker Rayburn of Texas said talk that the program is "bogging down" is "nonsense." Senator Lucas, the Senate Democratic floor leader, said he agreed with Rayburn.

The major setbacks Mr. Truman has suffered thus far in Congress are these:

1. The House has passed a rent control bill differing widely from what the administration asked. For one thing, the bill would let states, counties and cities decide for themselves whether they want to keep rent control.

2. The administration failed in its efforts to put through the Senate an anti-filibuster rule change intended to clear the way for action later on the President's civil rights program.

3. A Senate committee pigeonholed the President's nomination of his good friend, Mon Wallgren, to be chairman of the National Resources Security Board.

No Truman in Trunks

Washington, March 21 (AP)—President Truman says it is safer for him at home if he isn't photographed in bathing trunks. Mrs. Truman won't stand for it. And that, he says, is the real reason why White House aides insisted they must seize a batch of informal pictures made of the President and friends last week when he was vacationing at Key West, Fla. Mr. Truman talked about it at the dinner last Saturday night of the White House News Photographers' Association. It was not "censorship," he said with a grin, but "a safety measure so I could come home."

DIED

Memoriam

In loving memory of Kenneth Hendricks who departed this life two years ago March 20, 1947.

The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day.
But never will the one we love
From memory pass away.

Evening Verse
(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL I. O'CONNOR

GOOD NEWS

I always like to start the day
With bits of pleasing news
A smiling word may often stay
And chase the morning blues.

It makes my breakfast extra fine
When greetings come by post
A note . . . a card . . . a friendly line
Go well with buttered toast.

The headlines have to wait awhile
Because they're seldom bright . . .
I'd rather coax a breakfast smile
And start the morning right.

The global news offends the heart
And when I leave my bed
I let the coffee hour depart
Before the facts are read.

Good news should promptly greet us all
When day has just begun
The rest is at our beck and call
But first . . . let's view the sun.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Try Working This Hand Out Yourself

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Among the kibitzers at the recent Vanderbilt Cup tournament in New York city, I saw Sidney Lenz. One does not realize that this famous bridge personality is 76 years old.

He was born in Chicago, and away back in 1902 he started to play bridge in India. In those days the dealer either named the trump, or he "bridged" it to his partner, in which case his partner had to name the trump.

Sidney was an active member of the American Whist League. He served as its president at one time, and is a member of the original "Thirteen Cranks." In 1909 he won the pair championship at whist. During the next 25 years he won it four or five times more, but just 25 years later he had the distinction of winning it again.

In his younger days he was interested in lumber mills in Michigan. At one time he was vice president and editor of Judge Magazine, in which his famous bridge problems appeared for years. His problems also appeared in New York theatre programs for two or three years.

Few knew Sidney Lenz as a table tennis expert. Nevertheless, he won the national championship about 45 years ago, and today is honorary vice-president of the United States Table Tennis Association, and president of the American Ping Pong Association.

Here is one of Sidney's interesting hands. I am going to let you work it out yourself, but I will give you a few tips. You cannot make the contract if you try to ruff the diamonds out. East will throw the king of spades away. To make it, at trick two you must lead a small spade from dummy. Then you can establish the fifth spade, and later you can ruff one diamond.

Sidney Lenz

nocent, unoffending women and men in the plant and on the street and at least one employe while he was in his car on the highway."

The police and the sheriff's force had flinched, wilted and surrendered according to the precedent of the Hon. Frank Murphy, now a justice of the Supreme Court, when he was governor of Michigan during the S.I.O. lynchings of 1937. So you will see that the C.I.O. mobs have enjoyed the connivance and passive cooperation of the law-enforcement arm in hundreds of northern cities even as the southern mobs which, on rare occasions, have acted in hot blood rather than by formal direction from a high command.

The C.I.O. lynchings, to use an inadequate name for these crimes, are executed with a discipline and skill which should give law-abiding communities seriously to think of organizing and drilling defensive corps of vigilantes like the old sheriff's posses of the west. These posses were legal organizations and they still exist in skeleton or nostalgic form in some western areas.

"The testimony was to the effect that the goons acted with military precision," said the report of Congressman Clare Hoffman, of Michigan, who ran the inquiry for the House Committee on Education and Labor. "They were well-dressed and the majority of them were strong men. About one-third of the number were Negroes. On each occasion, when a beating took place, the goons acted together, three or more taking part in the slapping of the women. At least five participated in the beating of one of the shop workers. The cowardliness, the viciousness of some in this squad is shown by the unprovoked slapping of a girl sitting at her workbench."

Under President Truman's "anti-lynching" proposal, any southern community which suffered any person to be "lynched," under a definition which makes a lynching of a slap in the face or kick in the pants, could be punished in the Federal court for failure to protect that person. Again remembering that such a person invariably is accused of some crime, usually some unspeakable crime against a woman, we return to the stipulation in the same proposal that Mr. Truman's political allies, the goons of the C.I.O., shall be free to lynch as usual. The city of Kalamazoo could not be prosecuted for failure to protect law-abiding women and men because lynching, and worse crimes, committed by goons, are specifically excepted.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

D.H.B. was interested to read in this column about Union avenue, now Broadway, being covered with cobblestones and he recalls also when it was paved later with brick. To my way of thinking, they must have had a low road and a high curb, for the cobblestones and parts of the plank road are a good foot and a half below the present paving. Like one old timer explained, in the day of the horse and buggy, they needed a high sidewalk, curb or even a stepping stone for the high carriages, today a high curb would only ruin a modern car. He also remembered the old horse-cars, when Pat O'Reilly had his blacksmith shop down on lower Broadway, about where Netburn is today. There the extra horses were kept and used when needed for a heavy load to be pulled up the hill.

He also mentioned the time the Thomas Cornell boat ran aground, at a point near Marlborough, (which was known as an Indian playground). It happened on a very foggy night and Louis Schultz was pilot. D. H. B. went down on a tugboat by the name "Ouch." On the inspection boat were Julius Hyde, Herman Lange and others.

Just received an old time business card used by Schumann's Hotel at Eddyville when they advertised "Yachts and stages connect with the hotel." On the back of the card is a complete "Time-table of Steam yachts between Rondout, Eddyville and South Rondout. They started around 6:10 in the the morning and ran until about 6:20 in the evening, at about one and a half hour intervals. There was also a schedule of the "Auto Stage" between Eddyville and Rondout with special late Saturday night stages.

Mention of the coal train which ran into the U. & D. yard has brought a photo from Ed Wetterhahn of the Water Department showing the entire yard wrecked, and the engine resting on its side. The picture was dated 1905, but no day or month. The gentlemen viewing the wreck were wearing derby hats and some the famous old straw "kattles." No ladies present in the picture.

M.J.M. Forum

The weekly Myron J. Michael Radio Forum will be broadcast over WKNY Tuesday at 8 p. m. The topic for this week will be "Juvenile Delinquency." Judge John M. Cashin will be interviewed by seven pupils from the M.J.M. School. The pupils participating will be Jerry Billings, Elizabeth Ann Miller, Jean Rylance, Linda Van Deusen, Michael Flanagan, Vincent Van Bramer and James Young.

More improvements are being made to the Knaust Building at the corner of Main and Market streets which will add new offices. Some of the offices have been leased by prominent officials.

Negotiations Scheduled

New York, March 21 (AP)—The National Mediation Board has scheduled negotiations in Washington seeking to settle the contract dispute which has halted operations of the Railway Express Agency in the Metropolitan area for almost two weeks. Officials of the agency and of the A.F.L. Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks are to meet in Washington Wednesday. The meeting was set last night by Frank P. Douglass, chairman of the National Mediation Board.

Equal Exchange

In primitive societies, the taking of interest for the loan of goods or services rendered, in transactions between members of the same community, was unknown. All that was expected was the return of similar goods or services.

Marriage Needs Democratic Basis, Authority Declares

Ithaca, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—Experience shows that marriage should be based on democratic principles, an authority observed today.

Edward V. Pope, a family relationship extension specialist at the State College of Home Economics, expressed his views during the opening day program of Cornell University's Farm and Home Week.

The five-day "open house," sponsored by the state colleges of agriculture, home economics and veterinary medicine, features the latest developments in agriculture and homemaking.

Husband and wife, Pope said, marry "each other's habit systems." That is why, he added, the prospective bride and bridegroom should know each other well before taking the marriage vows.

In carrying out a policy of marital democracy, the speaker said, both partners must respect each other's differences, talk over sources of friction and compromise on things that don't really matter.

"Understanding and consideration of the other persons wishes and needs is of paramount importance in marriage," Pope said.

On the other hand, he advised, being resentful when husband or wife shows a lack of understanding is "poison to love."

Farm and Home Week attendance is expected to top last year's turnout of more than 10,000 persons. The 1948 event, first after a wartime lapse, was a four-day affair.

This year's program, listing 600 attractions, including exhibits and lectures, is divided into two sections. One is devoted to agriculture, the other to homemaking.

Several statewide organizations will meet here in connection with the Farm and Home Week program.

Would Pay Children

Prof. G. J. Raleigh, of Cornell's Vegetable Crops Department, suggested that children can be encouraged to help in home gardening by paying them wages—and double pay for overtime.

"Overtime is sometimes necessary," he contended, "when the pressure of other work sets the garden behind schedule."

Prof. J. A. Cope reported that sodium arsenite still was considered one of the best chemicals for controlling weeds. But because it poisons animals, he cautioned, it should be used only in places closed off to livestock. He said another effective weed killer, known as 2, 4-D, is non-poisonous to animals.

Careful Buying Urged

Ithaca, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—Buy a farm as carefully as you would choose a wife.

"Most farmers expect to live with both for life," says Dr. C. A. Bratton of Cornell University's Agricultural Economics Department.

"You can't have everything," he added in an address prepared for a Farm and Home Week session, "but you can get the best possible by setting high standards and looking the field over carefully. . . .

"It's difficult to find a farm with all the desirable features so advantages and disadvantages have to be carefully considered."

Cut Window Lighting

Hamburg, Germany (AP)—Because of the criticism of the British community here, German shopkeepers have been ordered to cut down their window lighting and neon signs. Britons pointed to the difference between austere Britain, where electricity is severely rationed, and Hamburg where shop windows were left on all night for display and the whole city had come out in a rash of neon signs. A British official statement said the shops and signs used only one-half of one per cent of the total Hamburg load. The city was already exporting one-third of its electricity production and planning to export more, the statement added.

Tells How Owner Can Qualify for Increase in Rent

Area Rent Director Charles C. Hoag today explained how a landlord can qualify for a rent increase under the adjustment provision in the rent regulations known as increased occupancy.

"There are three types of increases in occupancy which allow for additional rent," Hoag said. "One type permits a rent raise where there has been, since present rental rates became effective, a substantial increase in the number of subtenants or other persons occupying the accommodations under a rental agreement with the tenant.

"The second type entitles the landlord to a raise if there has been, since his present rates went into effect, a substantial increase in the number of occupants in excess of normal for that class of accommodations.

"The third type provides for a raise if there has been, since the date determining the present rent, an increase in the number of occupants over the number contemplated by the rental agreement. This last point is not applicable unless the landlord has had a regular and definite practice of fixing different rents for the accommodations when occupied by different numbers of occupants."

Hoag emphasized, however, that a baby born to a family occupying a rental dwelling unit, is not regarded as a "substantial increase in occupancy." The courts have upheld this interpretation of the regulations.

The area rent director offered the services of his office in helping landlords who are not sure whether they are entitled to a raise, and in filling out petitions for those raises when they feel they have qualified under any of the three types of increased occupancy.

King Shows Gain

London, March 21 (AP)—King George's operation has improved the circulation in his right foot so much he can now get out of bed part of each day, his doctors said this morning. Medical sources say it is too early to state whether the King will make a complete recovery from the ailment itself.

Boy, 11, Saves 4 From House Fire

Poughkeepsie, March 21—If Oscars were ever awarded to the top baby-sitting performance of the year, 11-year-old Frealon Gleason, Jr. of Rochdale, Town of Poughkeepsie, would probably be first in line.

Young Gleason, left by his parents who were out working, to take charge of his three younger brothers and a sister, led all four youngsters to safety Friday night when fire ruined the interior of the Gleason bungalow in Rochdale.

All of the children, Carl, 9, Peggy, 7, Charles 5, and Robert, 2, were shepherded to safety by young Gleason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frealon Gleason.

The boy, a student of the fifth grade at the Pleasant Valley school, first carried his two-year-old brother from the burning house after seeing that his other brothers and sisters were safe.

Firemen said the fire was started in a mattress in the bedroom of the Gleason home.

The father of the heroic baby-sitter is a night workers at a city gas station in Poughkeepsie and the mother is employed on a 4 p. m. to midnight shift at the Hudson River State Hospital.

Wants Art Pieces 120 Feet Under Sea Last 2,000 Years

By JAMES CALOGERO

Boston, March 21 (AP)—A 36-year-old archeologist hopes to get his hands on an art treasure that has been just 120 feet from man's reach for 2,000 years.

The treasure is water-locked on the floor of the Mediterranean Sea three miles off Mahdia, a small town near Tunis.

A French expedition tried for four years to recover the submerged art work about 40 years ago. The depth of the water stopped the work after only 20 pieces had been recovered.

Now Vincent Palmer of St. Louis, Mo., believes he has devised a method which will enable his expedition to raise the treasure next summer.

Archeologists say a Roman galley sank 2,000 years ago while carrying looted art from Greece to Rome. The galley was discovered in 1907 by native sponge divers who thought huge stone pillars lying athwart the vessel were "sleeping giants" of the deep.

A few months after its discovery, Alfred Merlin, curator of the Louvre in Paris, organized an expedition to investigate the wreck. Treacherous currents and the huge pillars, however, hindered efforts to explore the galley's hold.

Palmer is now in Boston, searching through archeological files at Harvard and discussing details of his project with Harvard professors under whom he studied.

Palmer said next summer's expedition will carry the latest in diving gear, including equipment that will enable divers to work in deep water without airlines if the current becomes too strong.

He said he will attempt to remove the huge pillars lying across the vessel by floating them to the surface in the manner the navy raised the sunken submarine Squalus off Portsmouth, N. H., in 1939.

He plans to attach huge rubber pontoons to the pillars and then inflate the pontoons with enough air to bring them slowly to the surface.

Palmer said he would have to ask the permission of the French government to explore the wreck and make some arrangement for the disposition of any loot recovered.

K. of C. Building Is Destroyed at Oswego

Oswego, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—The four-story Knights of Columbus building was a smoking shell today, razed by a spectacular $200,000 fire.

Police estimated that 10,000 persons defied sub-zero temperatures last night to watch firemen battle the fierce blaze in the heart of the business district.

Frank Boardman, first assistant fire chief, said the cause of the blaze was unknown but that it apparently had started in the first floor bowling alleys. No one was in the building at the time, he said.

Frank J. Werner, K. of C. secretary, estimated the loss at $200,000.

Two adjoining structures suffered smoke damage.

Resolution Adopted

New York, March 21 (AP)—A forum attended by 350 persons adopted a resolution last night urging United States support of a pact to enforce civil liberties through an international court. The Forum on Enforcement of International Civil Liberties concluded the two-day 29th annual conference of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Mental Health Series Plan Discussion for Tonight

Out of the Shawod is the title of this week's drama in the mental health series which is being presented every Monday over station WKNY at 8:30 p. m. This is the story of an ex-mental patient, a bright and capable young man who wished to come back to the work-a-day world but because of misunderstanding had difficulty in making good.

This week's play will be followed by a panel discussion with Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce; Howard Shurter, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency; Mrs. Peggy McSpirit of the Kingston Knitting Mills; and Mrs. Mabel Fisher, business agent for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

"The Tenth Man" series is sponsored by the Mental Health committee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

There are more than 3,500,000 oil heating installations in the United States.
